RALPH McGILL

A Russian Proverb Comes—

There is an old Russian proverb which reads:

"If you seek friends who can be trusted, go to the cemetery."

U.S. Air Forceman Twining may have thought of it as he participated in the Red army's annual "fly-by" on the big square before St. Basil's onion-topped spires.

Nikita Khrushchev, who is a talkative man, was warmed with wine and vodka at the international air-show dinner in Moscow, which affair followed the "fly-by." His friendship spilled over, like his cup.

Air Chief of Staff Twining handled himself well. Even though the Soviets showed him little, he was impressed by their new jet fighters. He had hoped to see the bombers. But since it was a show, the cloth of which was cut to the Russian pattern, he could only assume. They had the advanced interceptor and combat jets. They as surely have the bombers, which they concealed.

'Peace' Emphasis

The Russians do not go in for guile. They are as subtle as a blackjack. So it was that Khrushchev frankly admitted they were having an air show with a carefully chosen international audience, to emphasize "peace."

Russian fighter craft and interceptors cannot attack Britain, the United States, France or any European nation.

They can meet attack.

Bombers must carry the attack to an enemy.

So cheerfully admitting the air show was limited for propaganda and political purposes, the Kremlin showed only its defensive machines.

Air Chief Twining held up his end. Obviously he "sipped" and did not "drink." He was able to make telling counters in the talk which was of "peace."

Americans somehow, and this is a sad commentary on the American press, radio and television, have never quite understood the value of the bipartisan foreign policy. They have confused it with foreign aid, when that is but one of its facets. With all our genius for mass communication, we have not been able fully to make clear the necessity for such a foreign policy.

Still the Russians have not been quite able to steal the word "peace." They would have been so able but for our foreign policy program which, though it has been allowed to drag and go without needed revision, has enabled us to hold fast to a policy of peace and of strength.

This was at the crux of the Joe McCarthy crisis.

Had he and his followers prevailed it is almost a certainty the third world war long ago would have been under way. It was of the utmost importance to the nation that the President's policy prevail, and it did so through the process of the vote of censure against Sen. McCarthy and the revelations provided by the TV hearings of the charges against the Army.

Telling Point

Gen. Twining was able to make a telling point. "The United States," he said, "was the only nation to demobilize after the war. We then had to rebuild our strength when the Korean War began," he continued. "We will not disarm until we are sure there is worldwide arms control."

That was sense.

It can be done only if we carry on a foreign policy of imagination and strength. That policy now is so chained and bound by legislation that no president and no state department can have the necessary flexibility. Already, for example, there is a demand we break with Tito. Tito was a Communist when we began to work with him. He still is. In time we may have to end relations. But not yet. He still is the man who defied Stalin. His policy now is that of Moscow. He is yet a divisive force, a rallying figure for those elements which may not want to follow Khrushchev. Therefore, he is of value.

The world must avoid war. We cannot do it unless we have a strong well-conceived, non-rigid policy and military strength.

Gen. Twining will see and learn much that is helpful.

It will then be up to the Congress and the people to rise above a political year and enable the White House to carry out the necessary policy.

AIR FORCE CHIEF, RED LEADERS SAY "BOTTOMS UP" AT PARTY

Air Visitors Shown New Red Bomber

By VERN HAUGLAND

MOSCOW, June 25 (AP) — Top American and British air generals took a jeep tour of Russia's tightly guarded Kubinka Air Base today and were shown a new twin-engine bomber which they were told could fly faster than sound. The U. S. Air Force does not yet have a supersonic bomber.

Gen. Nathan Twining, U. S. Air Force chief of staff, seven of his aides and a party of British, French and other foreign military men invited to the U.S.S.R. to see its latest aviation achievements, traveled in a motorcade to the base 40 miles outside Moscow.

TURNED BACK

A party of American newsmen who tried to trail along were turned back by Russian officers 20 miles outside Moscow.

The British guests told reporters later their tour was "a child's guide to the Soviet air force."

"When we asked the range of planes we were shown we were told it was very great," the Britons said. "When we asked about the speed of a certain plane we were told very great. Nevertheless it was a valuable closeup."

ATTACK TYPE

Twining said the new bomber they were shown was a light attack bomber probably a bit smaller than Britain's jet bomber, the B57 Canberra. However, British viewers thought it was a bit bigger. The Soviet bomber was not in the Moscow air show yesterday, the visitors were told, and had never been shown before.

The visitors drove around the base in jeeps at a leisurely pace examining more than 100 planes without dismounting.

Twining made a brief call on Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov before journeying to the airport.

Twining said Zhukov asked about President Eisenhower's health, and indicated he would like to see his wartime associate again. The U.S. Embassy had circulated a report that Twining was relaying a message from Eisenhower to Zhukov, but Twining said this was not so.

Senate To Vote Today On AF Fund Increase

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, June 25—The Senate agreed today to vote tomorrow on a Democratic proposal that would thrust upon the Eisenhower administration a heavy unwanted increase in funds for the Air Force.

The debate, meantime, was growing in gravity and partisan bitterness. The Democrats for the first time were fundamentally and successfully challenging the President on a matter involving military judgment.

The Republicans for the first time in large numbers were leaving the President on such a matter, though they were attempting to take a position midway between him and the Democratic majority.

HOW MUCH?

The only question left tonight was how much additional Air Force money would be approved —whether about $1,000,000,000 as demanded by the Democrats or $500,000,000 as favored by the hard-pressed Republicans.

The Democratic Senate leader, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, was certain of a substantial victory—a half billion dollar increase at minimum—and had apparently good prospects for a total victory, the billion dollar rise.

Some of the most influential Republicans declared in private that they had assurances the administration would "accept in good faith" and actually spend whatever increase was settled upon.

HAD A CHANCE

They complained that until last week's hostile remarks on the increase by Secretary of Defense Wilson they had good chances to hold the additional allocation to half a billion.

Wilson had used the word "phony" though he later explained he had meant to direct the epithet not to the Senate but to a reporter's question concerning the matter.

Now, these Republicans said, they doubted their ability to stave off the full one billion dollars.

They added that the administration was leaving the conduct and direction of the fight strictly in the hands of Senate Republicans.

SUMMARY OF ATTITUDE

One of the most powerful of these Republicans thus summarized the administration's attitude, about which there had been contradictory reports.

The President was standing by his original budget requests and still did not want the increase. If the Senate insisted on one, however, the President hoped it would be half a billion rather than a billion. Finally, he would

Ike Puts Off Nehru, Plans Panama Trip

WASHINGTON, June 25 (UP) — President Eisenhower, preparing to leave the hospital, decided today to attend a "Little Summit" meeting in Panama late next month and to postpone a July 7 talk with Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Presidential news secretary James C. Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower will leave Walter Reed Army Medical Center this weekend for his Gettysburg, Pa., farm. He said he believed the President would be discharged as a patient, but that he might come back to some hospital for a checkup.

RESTFUL AFTERNOON

In releasing the day's final bulletin, which reported that Mr. Eisenhower had spent a "restful" afternoon, Hagerty said the President expects to take part in a Civil Defense evacuation of Washington late in July. The news secretary also said Mr. Eisenhower still hasn't talked politics.

Eisenhower put in a busy morning on official chores and then spent a "restful afternoon" after sending his "deepest sympathies" to the family of Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King, who died in the Portsmouth, N. H., Naval Hospital today.

PLAN AGREEABLE

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower, who will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary Sunday, will motor to their farm, Hagerty said they will stay longer than just the weekend. He said he could be no more definite at this time. They will be accompanied by Dr. Howard McC. Snyder, the President's personal physician.

Mr. Eisenhower originally planned to confer with the presidents of the other American states in Panama today and tomorrow. But when he became ill,

YMCA Building Drive To Ask $3.25 Million

A $3,250,000 YMCA expansion program designed to provide facilities for an additional 30,000 young people in the Metropolitan Atlanta area was announced Monday by the group's directors and trustees.

William A. Parker Sr., president, and Charles R. Younts, chairman, announced that a public appeal for these funds would begin Nov. 15.

The funds will be used to build and equip branch buildings for the Decatur-DeKalb area, the Northside area and the Westside branch for Negroes.

It will provide community-type buildings for the West Fulton, Eastern and South Fulton branches; two headquarters-type buildings for the Central community branch, and three Negro community branches.

A complete rehabilitation and enlargement of the Central Downtown Luckie street building and the Butler street building are proposed.

Finally, the funds would be used to increase by approximately one third the capacity of the three YMCA boys' camps, Camp Pioneer, Camp Waco and Camp Allatoona (for Negro youth).

Sites for the new buildings have not been announced, but construction will begin as soon as funds are available.

Parker and Younts pointed out that since the Luckie street and Butler street buildings were erected in 1914-18, the YMCA has made only two capital fund appeals.

5-Governor Caucus Here In the Works

Timmerman Tells Of 'Unity' Session

Special to The Constitution

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., June 25—South Carolina Gov. Timmerman said here today that five Southern governors have accepted his proposal for a pre-convention "unity" meeting. The group will convene in Atlanta "soon," he said.

At Richmond, Va., State Sen. Thomas H. Blanton of Bowling Green, Virginia's Democratic chairman, said he will attend the Atlanta meeting. He added that he sees no sentiment for a third party in Virginia.

'SIT AND LISTEN'

He indicated the Atlanta meeting would be one where he would "sit and listen."

Confusion at to the date of the meeting was created by Blanton stating the meeting would be held next month while a Timmerman aide in Atlantic City said the date for the meeting had not been decided.

Gov. Griffin, who is attending the Governors Conference here, and Georgia's Democratic Party Chairman John Sammons Bell, both said they knew nothing of the proposed session.

Timmerman declined to name any of the governors who had accepted his plan.

The South Carolina Democratic Party at its March convention urged "like-minded states" to join in opposing federal controls allegedly infringing on states' rights.

Timmerman, as chairman of the "unity" committee, recently sent letters to 10 state Democratic chairmen urging a meeting before the Democratic National Convention.

THIRD PARTY MOVEMENT?

Meanwhile, Sen. Sparkman of Alabama, 1952 vice presidential nominee, said today many Southerners are wary of such a move because of the 1948 third party "fiasco."

The Alabama senator added he hoped any Southern move would

GIs' Ouster Is Voted By Iceland

By FELIX BELAIR

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 25—Candidates committed to the withdrawal of American troops from Iceland won a landslide victory in yesterday's parliamentary election.

The Coservative Independence Party of Premier Olafur Thors suffered its worst defeat in more than 20 years on the central issue of loyalty to the North Atlantic Organization and continued operation of the Keflavik Air Base by the United States.

ALLIANCE WITH REDS?

Late tonight the big question was whether the Progressive-Democratic Alliance would win a clear majority of 27 Althing (parliament) seats and the right to form a government. There was every indication they would fall just short of it.

In that event the prospect was that the alliance would invite the Communist-led Labor Alliance to join them as they proposed during the campaign. This would mean the Communists would be able to call the tune to which Iceland's government would dance or collapse, but without assuming any responsibility for the results.

Western diplomatic circles were discussing an extraordinary meeting of the NATO Council to deal with the uncertain future of the Keflavik base. The Communists have insisted on the withdrawal of the Progressive-Social Democratic combination in the Althing.

NEUTRALITY PROMISE

It was expected that the winning combination would invite the Communists to join the government on a promise of remaining neutral on issues that might rise between the two major parties.

The Communists refused the same proposal last March before the Progressives pulled out of the government coalition.

Underlying these calculations was the personal relationship of victor and vanquished that eliminates another alternative—a coa-

NAVY'S REVIVER DIES

Adm. Ernest J. King

Adm. King Dies at 77 Of Seizure

KITTERY, Maine, June 25 (UP)—Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King, who led the largest and hardest-hitting fleet the world has ever seen during World War II, died today at the age of 77.

King, first man to hold the double job of commander-in-chief of the U.S. fleet and chief of Naval Operations, died at 1:45 p.m. (EST) at Portsmouth Naval Hospital. He was stricken with a heart seizure yesterday.

SON AT BEDSIDE

The tough, shrewd naval strategist, once called a "master tactician," commanded the World War II American fleet which rose from defeat at Pearl Harbor to wipe the German submarine menace from the seas and blast the Japanese navy from the Pacific.

At his bedside was his son, Lt. Cmdr. Ernest J. King Jr., who flew here from Washington. The younger King said his father's ailment was brought on by high blood pressure.

In Washington, the Navy announced funeral services will be held in the Washington Cathedral at 1 p.m. (EDT) Friday. Burial will be in the Naval Academy Cemetery at Annapolis, Md.

King, who once was described as the only man who could have fought an eight-front sea war while building a five-ocean navy, had been ill since 1947 when he suffered a brain hemorrhage.

QUALIFIED FLIER

The admiral was transferred here from the U.S. Naval Hospital at Bethesda, Md., June 6 so that he could escape the summer heat there.

King's career was marked by spectacular successes which were undiminished by the advances of time.

At 49, he volunteered to go to Pensacola, Fla., and earned his

Firm's Losses, Pay Raises Are Blamed

Elimination of special token rates and an increase in charges on numerous suburban lines have been requested by the Atlanta Transit Co.

The request was made in a letter to the Public Service Commission. Transit company president Robert Sommerville said the firm is at present "operating at a loss."

REASONS GIVEN

He said the increase was necessary because of new wage boosts recently granted transit employes, because of new taxes being written into the federal highway bill and because of increased mantenance costs.

The basic 15-cent fare on Atlanta lines would be continued, Sommerville said. And the company would continue to sell tokens, but at 15 cents straight instead of four for 55 cents, he added.

Fare increases on Metropolitan Transit lines would be effected in most cases by creating additional five cent zones, the company president explained.

FIVE CENTS MORE

The Glenwood-Columbia drive line, which now charges 20 cents, would charge 25 cents from Second to McAfee, for example.

Affected suburban lines would have increases in various zones along the lines, too. For instance, the company has requested no increase in the 35-cent maximum on the Fairburn line, but zone rates short of the end of the line would be upped.

Three short-run Metropolitan lines would not be affected. They are the Center Hill, Dixie Hill and Garden Hills lines.

The LaVista, Howell Mill-Argonne Servants and the Medlock Limited services would all have additional nickel fares added at the extreme ends of the lines.

Police Rescue Wife Here From Mate's Knife

Police late Monday rescued an Atlanta woman from her estranged husband who, they said, attacked her with a knife.

Mrs. Thelma Langford, 42, of 388 Capitol Ave., SE, was treated at Grady Hospital for wounds across the face and head. Detectives O. W. Jordan and J. G. Adams said the husband, William H. Langford, 50, of 327 Woodward Ave., SE, was arrested on charges of assault with intent to murder.

Patrolmen B. F. Sheriff and B. L. Payne wrested the knife from Langford, police said.

Mrs. Langford was on the way home from work at Fulton Bag and Cotton Mill. She told police she and Langford separated in October.

Jordan and Adams quoted Langford:

"I didn't mean to kill her. She wouldn't let me see my children. I was just trying to blind her so she couldn't see them either."

5,000-Mile Range for U.S. Missiles To Atlantic Isles Okayed by Britain

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—Britain agreed today to allow the United States to fire guided missiles from Florida over British island possessions to Ascension Island, 5,000 miles in the South Atlantic.

Agreements were signed at the State Department to increase the present 1,000-mile U.S. test range to five times that distance.

An Air Force spokesman said it would now be possible to test fully long-range guided missiles such as the Snark, one of the newest weapons now being developed.

Secretary of State Dulles and British Ambassador Roger Makins signed two agreements in a closed-door ceremony.

The texts were not made public, but the department said in an announcement:

"This extension should add considerably to the usefulness of the range and play a valuable part in the development of guided weapons.

"Effective steps, will, of course, be taken to safeguard fully the interests and safety of the inhabitants of the territories concerned and of civilian shipping and air commerce."

Guided missiles are now fired from a test center at Patrick Air Force Base in Florida. Until now, such missiles could be fired only 1,000 miles under agreements signed with the British in 1950 and 1952.

Another 2 Days In 90s Expected

Residents of Atlanta and the vicinity face another two days of the same sort of weather they sweltered through Monday, according to the weatherman.

Official prediction of the Atlanta Weather Bureau is partly cloudy and hot Tuesday and Wednesday, with a chance of scattered thundershowers both Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and evenings.

Predicted temperature extremes for both days will range from an early morning low of 72 to a high of 92.

Monday's extremes, recorded at the Atlanta Airport, were 73 and 92.

Minnie Sentenced to 20-Year Term In Million-Dollar Embezzling Case

NORFOLK, Va., June 25 (AP) — Minnie Mangum, who stole more than a million dollars from her employer, was sentenced today to serve 20 years in prison. She will be eligible for parole after five years.

The 59-year-old defendant, a plump spinster whose formal education ended in the seventh grade, was sentenced to 10 years for embezzling $1,082,968.25 and 10 years for lying to the State Corporation Commission in her financial reports.

Corporation Court Judge H. Lawrence Bullock specified the two sentences are to run consecutively. He imposed sentences of two years each, to run concurrently with the 20 years, on eight indictments alleging forgery, two alleging false information and one alleging embezzlement of $17,000.

Three other indictments charging embezzlement of $2,884,000 were dropped on State Prosecutor Linwood Tabb's motion.

Miss Mangum demonstrated great skill at juggling the books of Commonwealth Building and Loan Assn. to conceal defalcations of almost three million dollars that toppled the institution into ruin.

At her trials last month the state produced witnesses who testified Miss Mangum stole the vast sums of money during the past 22 years and gave much of it to her relatives and friends. A score of these relatives and friends are now being sued by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation for more than a million it contends Miss Mangum gave them from her employer's funds.

The 190-pound defendant, who had risen to assistant secretary-treasurer of Commonwealth, showed no emotion when she was sentenced today. As officers escorted her from the courtroom to begin the automobile ride to the State Industrial Farm for Women to Goochland near Richmond, a single tear ran down her cheek. It was the first public display of emotion since her arrest in December.

She had listened impassively to the reading of a probation officer's presentence report and a psychiatrist's report. The probation officer reported Miss Mangum was one of nine children of a small-income family whose father drank excessively; she did not take part in many community activities, she left school after the seventh grade and went to work at the age of 13.

"Her life was dedicated to the family," the report said, "and she never has enjoyed many social affairs such as dancing and dating, stating that there were only two men ever in her romantic life, but the responsibilities of the home were too great for her to ever become serious-minded with either of these men."

Chandler Proposes Deal to Harriman

Ready To Offer Kentucky For 2nd Place on Ticket

ATLANTIC CITY, June 25 (AP)—Averell Harriman got a strings-attached boost from Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky today as he and supporters of Adlai E. Stevenson skirmished backstage to line up Democratic governors behind their presidential campaigns.

While nursing presidential hopes himself, Chandler made it apparent at a news conference that he was ready to dicker with Harriman about second place on the party ticket and the 30 votes Kentucky will toss into the pot at the Democratic National Convention in August.

And, in a whirl of political developments around the edges of the 48th annual conference of the nation's governors:

1. Gov. Phil N. Donnelly of Missouri trumpeted a note of discouragement in the direction of the Harriman camp with word he believes former President Harry S. Truman will be unable to control the state's delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

2. Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee was engaged in a round of political maneuvers that could knock some of the main props out from under the remaining hopes of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee to capture the presidential nomination.

BATTLE IN 5 STATES

3. The number of Democratic governors who think their party will have a real battle to capture their states in November against President Eisenhower grew to five. Chandler added Kentucky and Abraham Ribicoff put Connecticut on the list. Previously, Harriman had said it would take a strong candidate and platform for the Democrats to win in New York. And Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and Gov. Robert Meyner of New Jersey had talked none too optimistically about party chances in their states.

4. Ribicoff disclosed he plans to do what he can for the Stevenson cause here at the governors' conference. And he put in a plug for Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts for second place on a Stevenson ticket, a plug he said already had been given a friendly reception by Stevenson.

EDUCATION PROBLEMS

Officially, the governors were concerned today with education problems of the nation. They traded ideas on how to meet them, in morning and afternoon round table sessions in advance of their annual state dinner tonight.

But, as always at these gatherings of the chief executives of the states, politics was the main consideration outside the conference chambers.

The political talk came out of news conferences and interviews.

Chandler presided at a rollicking affair marked by wisecracks, quips, laughter, and his own ability to make it clear he rather likes Harriman and is no friend of Stevenson.

He said Harriman would "not necessarily" have to promise him the vice presidential spot in order to get Kentucky's support at the Democratic convention.

He said he had talked with Harriman and had a "pleasant visit." He added:

"I think maybe we're going to have another one. We haven't gotten down to brass tacks."

By getting down to brass tacks, he said he meant "just having an old-fashioned, man-to-man talk, about the facts of life."

"Do you mean you're open for a deal?" a reporter asked.

"I didn't say so," Chandler replied. "I'm open for discussion."

Boy, 11, Used as Shield by Bandit Is Shot in Back During Getaway

MOTHER COMFORTS BOY SHOT BY HOLDUP MAN
"I Wasn't Resisting Him," Bandit's Shield Says

LOS ANGELES, June 25 (AP)—An 11-year-old boy was shot in the back last night by a bandit who used the child as a shield to make his getaway from a market, police said.

The boy, Grant Higuchi, was reported in good condition at Kaiser Hospital today. He was shot near the spine on the left side. The bullet came out his left chest.

"I don't know why he shot me," the lad told detectives. "I wasn't resisting him."

Detectives said the robber took about $500 cash.

After getting the cash the masked man grabbed the boy and left the market, warning: "Stay where you are or I'll kill the kid."

Detectives said the market employes also were warned not to cry out or the boy would be hurt. They said apparently someone shouted as the robber was leaving and the boy was shot.

Statements of Who Gave How Much To Major Parties Gone With Wind

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—Statements showing who gave how much to the major political parties, which the Justice Department has been seeking for "various investigations," were declared tonight to be "not in existence."

This word came from Clerk Ralph Roberts of the House of Representatives in the wake of repeated efforts by the Justice Department to 1. find the documents or 2. determine whether they still existed.

Roberts told reporters he assumed the reports filed with his office by the campaign committees were bound up and disposed of as scrap paper. This is customary procedure for papers no longer kept in "live" House files, Roberts explained.

Withholding details, the Justice Department said in correspondence made public today that the FBI wanted the Republican statement for 1952 and the Internal Revenue Service wanted the Democratic statement for the same year as well as statements for 1949, 1950 and 1951.

Roberts took the position the Corrupt Practices Act, under which candidates for federal office and political committees must file statements with his office, requires the keeping of such records for only two years.

"I have that on the best legal authority," Roberts said.

Roberts also disagreed with the Justice Department's position that the detailed reports filed by political committees must be turned over to the national archivist after being kept for public inspection for two years.

Campaign reports, Roberts said, are "statements from outsiders and are not considered official records of Congress." Roberts said he has a "suspicion" the 1952 reports already have been scanned by the Justice Department.

"We just don't have them any more," Roberts said. "If they really want them it seems they could get them from the two national committees themselves."

Negro College, Citing Strike, Asks 15 Students Stay Away

ORANGEBURG, S.C., June 25 (AP)—South Carolina State College for Negroes here has asked 15 students not to return next fall and has not renewed contracts of "several" faculty members after a student strike in April over segregation matters.

Secretary W. C. Bethea of the Board of Trustees said today the students had been notified after the end of the school term, so "they were not expelled."

He said three faculty members' contracts had not been renewed and several others had said they did not want renewals.

A legislative investigation of activities at the college of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People will begin "soon," Bethea said.

Bethea said all the notices, the resignations and the contract nonrenewals resulted from the "insurrection" of last April 9-12, when students went on strike under the open leadership of the student body president, Fred Moore of Charleston.

A threat of expulsions ended the strike, but Moore was dismissed. He left to complete his senior year at a Midwestern white college which he declined to name.

"The board is not going to put up with any such insurrections," Bethea said. "The NAACP is just trying to goad us into closing the school so they'll have an excuse to seek entrance at our white colleges."

Published student grievances at the time of the strike said they objected to college purchases of goods and services from Orangeburg firms owned or managed by members of White Citizens Councils, which are dedicated to maintaining segregation.

The grievances also asked Turner to take an open stand on integration.

Soviet Power Growing, Gruenther Warns U.S.

Tells Governors New Red Regime Is Much Craftier Than Stalin's

By W. H. LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)

ATLANTIC CITY, June 25—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther warned the nation's governors tonight the military strength of the Soviet bloc is increasing despite smiles, cocktail parties, foreign visits to the Soviet Union and talk of disarmament.

He spoke at the annual dinner of the Governors' conference in an appeal for support of the administration's foreign aid program. The House cut of $1,100,000,000 from President Eisenhower's budget requests and the issue now is before the Senate.

SHIELD INADEQUATE

As supreme Commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Gen. Gruenther said reaffirmation of our policy of alliances for peaceful ends would be able to prevent a third World War and make it possible for the western powers to "more than hold our own in the cold war which is now in progress."

He said the land-air shield availamle to NATO powers still is inadequate, and that it will take three or four years before we can "give a reasonable guarantee that we shall be able to defend all of the NATO teritory against an all-out act of aggression."

Part of the money requested by President Eisenhower will be spent to construct in Europe a radar warning line similar to the one now being built around the rim of the Arctic on the North American continent. He asserted he could "concieve of no more valuable expenditure of American funds" because the radar warning system is essential to defense of the United States itself.

CAN'T DROP GUARD

The main thesis of Gen. Gruenther's speech was that the United States and its allies cannot afford to relax their guard and cut down on military spending simply because the Soviet leaders have sought, in some ways, to relax tensions.

The present Soviet regime, he said, "is infinitely more clever than the regime under Stalin."

At allied headquarters, he said plans for the defense of Europe must be based on "military realities" rather than on cocktail parties or visits to and from the Soviet Union, interesting though they may be." He spoke at a time when Gen. Nathan Twining, Air Force chief of staff, was in Russia getting a partial look at Soviet aviation development.

His headquarters, he said, reported that the military capabilities of the Soviet bloc "in spite of their smiles" are increasing constantly. He said this was a very significant fact.

"Furthermore," he added, "even if the reductions which were announced by the Soviets are actually carried into effect by the target date of May 1, 1957, it is our conclusion that their capabilities for surprise attack will ominously remain."

Death Judge Gunned by 2 Cyprus Rebels

NICOSIA, Cyprus, June 25 (AP)—Two gunmen today shot a British judge who had passed six death sentences on pro-Greek rebels. He was in a dangerous condition tonight.

Justice Bernard V. Shaw, 65, suffered head and throat wounds.

The gunmen shot him while he sat between two Turkish police bodyguards in his car as it stopped for a signal light in busy Victoria street. The assassination attempt occurred shortly after 1 p.m. in the teeming Armenian quarter of the old walled city.

Smug, Sassy Pigeons Ruffle a Gentleman

By MARJORY SMITH

PIGEONS IN OUR TOWN are getting too fat, smug and sassy to suit at least one habitue of city parks.

"I predict the day," he writes darkly, "when, if steps aren't taken, the pigeons will take over Atlanta!"

The gentleman, a retired businessman with plenty of time to study these matters, has been observing Atlanta pigeons over a long period. He has watched them sauntering boldly across the lawns of the State Capitol, Fulton County Courthouse and City Hall—taking the right of way from the highest state, county and city officials.

("During the Legislature and Boys State and Girls State sessions, the birds are insufferable," he notes in passing. "They're over-fed, and I think some of the delegates from south Georgia bring 'em Georgia-grown pecans. Enough of those rich, protein-packed nuts will spoil anybody, man or bird.")

IN PLAZA AND HURT PARKS he winces to see pretty office workers sharing their lunches with the blase pigeons. ("Fried chicken, ripe olives and peaches, yet!")

He wouldn't be a bit surprised if some of the doctors' receptionists relaxing there at noonday didn't sneak vitamins to their feathered friends. ("Or maybe," he muses, "some of those 'don't-give-a-darn' tranquilizing pills. That would explain a lot.") Pigeons, he blusters, "hog the coolest shady spots and hop around the water fountain until a man can hardly get a drink."

DOWNTOWN TRAFFIC, which ruins the gentleman's nerves and disposition, doesn't faze pigeons. "They help stall it and won't get out of the way of the finest imported sports car," he complains. "Just wait until those pesky birds discover the Expressway!"

Pigeons, to this man's way of thinking, "are ungrateful, perform no real service and are fast getting out of hand." He doesn't go so far as to suggest banning or starving the birds. "But please," he implores, "no more vitamins and Georgia pecans. Let's let it go at bread crumbs!"

Good Families Gain on Bad In U.S., Sociologist Says Here

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

There's a general trend toward a "renaissance of families" in America, a Harvard University sociologist said here Monday.

Dr. Carl C. Zimmerman, associate professor of sociology at Harvard, said he believes "the good families are gaining on the bad families" in this country.

Dr. Zimmerman explained this trend only as "a psychological turn among American people."

In Atlanta for a 12-day conference on social theory at Emory University, Dr. Zimmerman said in an interview that parents are "becoming increasingly aware of their responsibilities."

"Parents," he said, "are interested in keeping the proper environment for their children."

Dr. Zimmerman said he recently completed a study of families in six cities to find out why teenagers drop out of high school. He wanted to learn, he said, how the students were "motivated" by their families to complete school or to drop out.

He studied high school students in Boston, New Orleans, St. Louis, Denver, Omaha and Los Angeles. Of every 1,000 who started high school in these cities, he said, only 621 were graduated.

Dr. Zimmerman said he found that families who were "careful in picking their family friends" were more sucessful in keeping their teen-agers in school.

Dr. Zimmerman is one of three guest lecturers at the Emory sociology conference. Others are Dr. Wilhelm Roetke, professor of the Graduate Institute of International Studies in Switzerland, and Dr. Karl Raimund Popper, professor of logic and scientific method at the University of London.

Several One-Way Street Reversals Likely When Work on Bridge Starts

Atlanta's downtown one-way street pattern will remain virtually unchanged until work starts on the Courtland street-Forrest avenue expressway connector bridge, if the Traffic and Transportation Commission has its way.

That Monday appeared to be the sentiment of the group meeting at the city hall. Elfred S. Papy, vice chairman, presided.

Completion of the bridge is expected within the next 20 months.

Traffic Engineer Karl Bevins observed that traffic on several one-way streets should be reversed when work on the bridge begins.

Bevins said Ivy street, NE, and Central avenue, SW, should be made two-way from Peachtree street, NE, to Garnett street, SW; Piedmont, NE, two-way from North avenue, NE, to Edgewood avenue, SE; that Baker, NE-NW, possibly should be made two-way when work begins.

Bevins said he will provide commission members with new maps showing those and the following other projected changes:

Courtland street, NE, and Washington street, SW, one-way for southbound traffic from North avenue to probably Memorial drive; Piedmont avenue one-way south from Ponce de Leon avenue, NE, to Edgewood avenue; Ivy street and Central avenue one-way north from Memorial drive, SE-SW, to Peachtree street; Pryor street one-way north from Edgewood avenue to Peachtree street, and Pryor street one-way south from Edgewood avenue to Memorial drive.

He also said he will propose one way stretches on the following other major downtown thoroughfares:

Whitehall street one way north; Forsyth street one way south; Hunter street and Trinity avenue one way west and Mitchell and Garnett streets one way east.

Also recommended was nonparking at all times for the following street stretches:

The south side of North avenue from Moreland NE to Whitefoord avenue; the north side of Fifth street from West Peachtree to Myrtle streets; the west side of Cooper street SW from Whitehall to Crumley street SW and the north side of McLendon avenue, NE from Moreland avenue to Candler street, NE.

Ride Into 12-Ft. Hole Stuns Cyclist, 15, Here

A 15-year-old boy was injured Monday when he rode his bicycle into a 12-foot exacavation at Coronet Way and Moores Mill road, NW, police said.

He was identified as Edward Powell Woolf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Woolf of 1224 Pinegrove Ave., Brookhaven.

Pfl. S. F. Wiggins and G. B. Donald said the youth was riding on a section of Coronet Way that had been blocked to traffic by the City Waterworks Department. They said that when he fell into the excavation he struck a 48-inch water main.

He was treated at Grady Hospital for bruises.

Aloha, Show Business!

Nobody knows better than Davison's that the show must go on, come hail or high water. The curtain's been going up daily on a new show in this emporium for 66 years. But it isn't every day we get a chance to help bona fide show business out of a tight spot. Last Thursday, Martha Lee, assistant in our Fabric Centre, spotted a dark-haired, black-eyed, husky Hawaiian roaming about, looking dejected and awfully lost. Martha hailed him with a hearty "Aloha" and asked if the land-bound skin diver needed help. He sure did. Seems he's a night-club entertainer who had lost his sarong, along with all his other luggage. He was booked in a night spot that very evening and it looked like he would have to go on sans sarong. Not if she could help it, said Martha. They began frantically searching for possible sarong material among bolts of fabrics obviously not chosen with that use in mind. They quickly passed up the delicate flower prints and modest dots, hovered briefly over the Oriental and India prints, passed rapidly to some wilder and wilder designs. But Alas! All proved too tame for the native's taste. Finally, when they had all but given up, they came on the one perfect wacky-hula-hickey-dula pattern: terry beach toweling printed with cocoanut palms, hula girls in grass skirts, leis, even a ukelele. Our now happily beaming friend had Martha measure him for a sarong right there in the aisle (it took a good 4 yards, we told you he was a husky Hawaiian.) An interested bystander who had watched it all, saw the show that night at a local entertainment spot and dropped by next day to report that our Hawaiian and Davison's sarong brought down the house.

If you, too, have a more or less complicated problem (sarong or otherwise) come to Davison's and just try to stump our seasoned troupers.

A Pink Cloud is for eating!

Pink clouds are mighty pretty for painting, if you're handy with a brush and palette; dreamy for floating on, if you're in love. And simply scrumptious for eating, when you're lunching in Davison's Terrace Restaurant these days. Our "Pink Cloud" is a salad, though we hesitate to give such a terrestial name to anything so celestial. Pink, of course, it is a delicately fluted mould blushing with rosy strawberries, so beautiful, so delicious beyond all other salads it is causing local Escoffiers to throw in their mixing bowls. The "Pink Cloud" is served on a partified pink plate, garnished with pink-and-white sandwiches and crisp green slices of watermelon pickle. Today is a wonderful day to treat your palate to a "Pink Cloud." Only $1.00 in Davison's Terrace Restaurant, 6th Floor and absolutely, unconditionally guaranteed to make jaded Summer taste buds wake up and sing "Hallelujah!"

P.S. Having a bridal shower? A tea? Why not make it a "Pink Cloud Party" and let Davison's Terrace Restaurant be your host? Call WA. 7612, Ext. 453 for party reservations.

Gen. Twining Visit Emphasizes a Truth

The late Spencer McCallie, one of the South's great school men, was wont to use a homely phrase when addressing some great truth to one of his less-attentive students.

"Young man," he'd say, "I wish I had this truth embossed on a mallet so that I might hit you in the head with it and thereby impress it permanently on your mind."

The Russians, via their air show, have once again hit us on the head with a mallet on which is embossed a vital truth. We must remain strong and we must carry on a vigorous, well-planned foreign policy.

Air Force Chief of Staff Twining, while he did not see the Soviet's offensive aircraft, saw enough to be impressed. He talked as frankly as did they. He reminded them as they talked of peace that this nation was the only one which demobilized after World War II ended. We paid a great price in rearming when the Korean War began.

"We will not disarm again," Gen. Twining told them, "until assured of worldwide arms control."

The Russians spoke of patience.

Ambassador Bohlen reminded them we have been patient.

The ebullient Khrushchev, loosened up with wine and vodka, broke in to say, "We can beat you at patience."

The Russians need this show to help themselves with their own and other Communist peoples. There is restiveness in all Communist Parties outside Russia.

But the American people must not allow the strictures and hypocrisies of an election year to blind them to the fact that there is to be no world war but instead a long-time cold war demanding not merely strength, but patience.

And we shall lose it unless we realize, as President Eisenhower has said, that the cost of a bipartisan foreign policy, expensive though it may be, is peanuts compared with the cost of war.

President Woodrow Wilson, when the peace treaty was repudiated by the American people, reminded them that "the job will have to be done over again in 20 years at 10 times the cost." He erred only in the cost estimated. It was 30 times that of the first war.

Strength, a vigorous, flexible foreign policy and patience will be required of us. If we allow an election year to sabotage it, we shall thereby sabotage our country and its future.

Let Third Party Meet Be Held Somewhere Else

Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr., of South Carolina, has announced a meeting of Southern state Democratic chairmen for Atlanta but apparently the chairmen don't know about it.

Georgia's chairman, John Sammons Bell, has said he knows of no definite plans for such a meeting. Gov. Marvin Griffin likewise was in the dark.

Gov. Timmerman is, of course, welcome. But we find ourselves hoping the meeting, if there is one, will be held somewhere else.

The South Carolinians seem determined to walk out of the Democratic convention and to make plans ahead of time to that end. Other Southern states at least want to wait and see what happens at the convention. Many of them are on record against a walkout or a third-party move, such as the South Carolinians seem again to want. We would much prefer any and all third-party meetings be held under a South Carolina dateline.

South Carolina politicians have what amounts to an obsession about third parties. The fact they can do nothing save lead to the breakdown of the American political system seemingly means nothing to them.

Nor does the fact that their third-party efforts in the past have proved futile and ineffective weigh anything in their considerations. Once more they reaffirm the statement by the philosopher George Santayana that "He who does not learn from the past is doomed to repeat it."

We trust Chairman Bell and Gov. Griffin are correct and there are no definite plans for such a meeting in Atlanta.

Icelanders Want Their Island to Themselves

In a record breaking turnout of voters, Icelanders expressed in no uncertain terms their desire for United States military personnel to pack up and go home.

As a result of the election, the pro-American conservatives hold only 19 of the places in the 52-seat parliament. The Communists won seven seats, while the anti-foreign military coalition of Progressives and Social Democrats apparently captured the others. Prime issue of the campaign was the big U.S. Air Force base at Keflavik, a bastion of Western defense and other smaller military installations throughout the land.

Clearly the effect of American troops on the life of the independent Icelanders and the possible involvement, through their presence, of Iceland in any future world conflict have had an unhappy effect on the island.

Settled by the Vikings, Iceland has a parliamentary tradition of more than 1,000 years. Formerly a kingdom in union with Denmark it has been an independent republic since 1944, though its ties with Europe are close.

Its geographic location, between Greenland and Norway in the iciest of latitudes and its poverty once guaranteed Iceland peaceful isolation. But the air age made it of prime strategic importance, a fact to which the Icelanders obviously have not reconciled themselves.

The vote of the Icelanders is understandable, if selfish. But it is shortsighted. Power politics abhors a vacuum just as much as does nature. And if we move out, somebody else is going to move in.

Adm. Ernest J. King Did a Magnificent Job

Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King, who had the enormous task of rebuilding the United States Navy after Pearl Harbor, is dead.

Commissioned an ensign in 1903, the admiral began his long and very salty career as a midshipman in the Spanish-American War. He advanced through grades to rear admiral by 1933, was made chief of naval operations in 1942 and was appointed fleet admiral in 1944.

Adm. King was a commanding figure in every sense of the word. Tall, straight and stern faced, he was in the old tradition of iron men and wooden ships. A disapproving look from him could quell a riot. When he gave an order it was carried out and without any foolish questions.

When Adm. King took over, the United States Navy was little more than a token force. Weakened by disarmament after World War I and dealt an almost mortal blow by the Japanese on Dec. 7, 1941, American naval might was more fiction than fact. To Adm. King was given the job of producing a new Navy, one mightier than the world had ever seen, and manning it. This he did, quietly and efficiently. History forever will bear witness to his successful fulfillment of this assignment.

Despite his enormous influence and his seat among the mighty, the admiral was not well known to the public. He coined no ringing phrases, as did some of his predecessors of the Navy and opposite numbers in other services. And he had no more use for press agents than he had for mutiny.

He was a naval officer through and through, devoted to his country and his duty. A nation which barely knew him is mightily in his debt.

The Metropolitan YMCA Rates Generous Support

Directors and trustees of the Metropolitan YMCA have announced plans for a $3,250,000 expansion program of facilities and equipment in the Atlanta area. Looking at the needs and demands for such services as those provided by this splendid organization, the figure is conservative.

The program includes 11 new community or branch buildings, enlargement of the Butler and Luckie street plants and improvements at the three camps.

This is a necessary move. Atlanta is growing. The community branches have proved their value and need. No citizen, watching the growth of these suburban communities can doubt that need. The child population of Fulton County in the age group from 9 to 16 has increased from 70,000 to 95,000 since 1948 and is still growing.

A public appeal will not be made until November. Since 1918 the YMCA has made only two capital fund appeals but population has grown by some 249 per cent. There are at least 30,000 youngsters in the community who cannot participate in its programs because of lack of facilities.

Now is the time for every citizen to make up his mind that when November comes the program will receive support. The goal cannot be reached without a generous response. There is time to study the plans and the needs and to prepare to act accordingly.

The YMCA is an integral part of Atlanta. It has served well and it must be permitted to grow with the city. It depends upon voluntary support, receiving only 11.5 per cent of its total operational funds from the Community Chest. Its present and its future depend upon the citizens of the community.

Georgian Wonders Why New Red Bosses Have Such Admiration for the President

Atlanta—Will someone please explain to me why the Kremlin traveling salesmen like Ike so much?

They didn't like Harry Truman, whom the Republicans accused of being "soft" on Communists and communism. They have castigated long and loud all who have put roadblocks in the way of their aims.

With all due respect to our ailing President, these Red butchers always have seemed to like those whom they can use to advance their ends. Can it be that Ike is considered an easy dupe in furthering their ambitions?

Let us hope that Khrushchev's admiration for the President is based on genuine respect instead of otherwise. Past experience teaches us, however, always to be wary. Especially do we remember another ailing president of whom they took advantage.

It's getting to be such an old story, these "foot in the mouth" incidents.

In fact, it has reached such a degree of monotony that I would like to suggest that Dulles and Wilson try changing jobs for a time. Each evidently couldn't do a worse job and it would be a change, at least.

'Statistics Considered Misleading at Times'

Tifton—Please allow me to add a little more fuel to the already overheated blaze of segregation versus integration.

Recently a writer from Washington wrote his views of why segregation is maintained. He gave the reasons as illegitimacy, broken homes, low morals and the crime rate of Negroes in general. The one thing that he failed to mention is that statistics are cold facts which do not state the causes as well as the effects of these things or conditions.

I should think that it is in great part attributable to negligence by those in power.

Dr. Adenauer Is in Trouble With the German Electorate

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's visit to Washington verged on the tragic. He came to get White House help in braking the decline of his influence in Germany and in Europe. A 10-minute hospital visit with President Eisenhower hardly was enough. Nor was there very much help in another joint statement with Secretary of State Dulles calling on Russia to sanction German reunification.

Especially since Americans like John J. McCloy, former U.S. high commissioner in Bonn, have been suggesting that West Germany may have to renounce its claim to lost territories, few West Germans can be happy about Dr. Adenauer's mission.

They sincerely supported the chancellor and his pro-Western policy when he came to power a decade ago. They voted overwhelmingly for him, his partisans and his measures. Germans were enthusiastic for a united Europe in a united West. They believed with Adenauer — and Washington — that strength through unity would compel the Russians to give up East Germany.

But although the state department sometimes seems unaware of it, things have changed in Germany. Today Dr. Adenauer is a minority chancellor. His coalition has fallen apart. There is disagreement in his own party. Not since the 1953 general election have his Christian Democrats been able to maintain their position in a state election. And they are given little chance in next year's national elections.

This is significant for the United States because we are in some degree responsible for Dr. Adenauer's present troubles.

The United States cannot be blamed for the rejection of the European Defense Community which dashed German hopes for European solidarity. But we did bring West Germany into NATO as a substitute for EDC.

Then came the Geneva exchange of friendly words, albeit vague ones, between the statesmen of East and West. To many of the unrepresented Germans, this was a sign that their chief national aspiration would be neglected for an abatement of differences between the great power blocs on the basis of the status quo.

Dr. Adenauer believed reunification might be achieved by his trip to Moscow. But there the Russians rather than he seemed to be in the "position of strength." Reunification was not even mentioned. He was forced to resume diplomatic relations with the Kremlin.

West German disillusionment was deep. It showed itself in increased stubbornness about bringing the authorized 500,000-man military force into being. It showed itself in political defections from his administration. And above all, it showed itself in proposals for trade and negotiations with the Communist bloc. There is a widespread feeling—further encouraged by the Kremlin's "new look"—that Dr. Adenauer's policies have led to failure and that new ways must be found and tried. This turn of events must be faced in Washington.

'Chucky Jack' Is Good Drama

Move over, Rock City! Move over, Silver Springs and Unto These Hills! Move over on the bumper bar. Make way for "Chucky Jack!" North Carolina's outdoor drama has crossed into Tennessee. Playing nightly except Sunday until Sept. 1 in a mountainside theater at Gatlinburg, Tenn., under the title "Chucky Jack" is the story of Tennessee, 16th state in the Union, born the state of Franklin. "Chucky Jack" traces the rise and fall of Franklin.

I saw it rise and fall last Saturday night, from a high-backed chair, one of the 2,501 seats in the new Hunter Hills Theater, much like the one in Cherokee, N.C., where "Unto These Hills" starts its seventh season tonight.

The theater gets its name from the author, Kermit Hunter, one of the nation's leading exponents of the outdoor drama.

Anyone who has thrilled to the story of pioneering along the headwaters of the Tennessee River recognizes in the name of the play what the Indians called John Sevier.

Sevier, hero of King's Mountain, crossed the mountains to raise a cabin on the Nolichucky River, in, it was then Washington County, N.C. Now it's Washington County, Tenn.

Between the settlements along the Nolichucky, the Holston and the Clinch and the parent state of North Carolina there was a mountain barrier and a seeming wall of indifference.

Left on their own, the settlers beyond the ridges went about making laws and handling problems in their own way. The ensuing conflict, with the mother state and the Indians, is the plot for "Chucky Jack."

The story is told well, in two acts and 16 scenes. The characters are authentic. So is the costuming, and colorful, too. The staging is splendid. Quick shifts are made by revolving stages on either side. The sidedrops are Tennessee's own green hills.

The acting Saturday night was spotty, a little rough around the edges. But the performance was the third of a first season.

The audience was small, partly because of a suppertime thunderstorm which at curtain time was threatening an encore.

As a story "Chucky Jack" lacks the intense drama of "Unto These Hills." But it has color, beauty, authenticity and punch. It teaches a powerful lesson in American history and democracy.

By the way, the musical score is by a Cherokee Indian, Jack Frederick Kilpatrick. The choral parts of the Kilpatrick music were recorded by a Negro octette from Knoxville College. The music was put on tape by a Knoxville urologist, Dr. John H. Dougherty, whose hobby of tape recording has made of him one of the best sound engineers in the South.

Supporting Church Builds Better Lives

The earthly life of the Lord was rapidly drawing to a close. In just six months He would be crucified. The work He had come to do would then be upon the shoulders of His disciples. The time had come to ask them some questions—questions He had never asked before. He needed to know if they had made up their minds concerning Him. He asked two questions:

First, "Whom do men say that I, the Son of man, am?" (Matt. 16:13). As people talked about Him in the stores, on the streets and around the supper table, what were they saying?

The answer he got was very complimentary. The people were comparing Him to the greatest defenders of the faith—John the Baptist, Elijah, Jeremiah and the other prophets.

But just to admire Him was not enough. So He asked His second question, "Whom say ye that I am?" He must have some people who had made up their minds. Mere admiration doesn't build kingdoms, doubts create no enthusiasm, uncertainty would never conquer a world.

One of the disciples answered for the group: "Thou art Christ, the Son of the living God."

Then Jesus said, "Upon this rock I will build My church."

His purpose on earth was to build His church. He knew that when men really believed in Him as the Son of God, they would go to the ends of the earth to carry the news. He knew that those who believed in Him would bind themselves together in spiritual fellowships. As long as men believed in Him, no sacrifice would be too great for Him. He needed men to carry on the building of His church. He still is in need of men.

In my own church, before one is admitted to membership, he or she must promise to support the church by "your prayers, your presence, your gifts and your service."

Important is the order of that four-fold support. First, "your prayers." Unless our support of the church begins with prayer, it usually doesn't begin. Prayer leads us to recognize our dependence upon God.

Every true member of a church will include in his or her prayers, "God bless our church."

I tried recently to reach a young man for the church.

He told me, "As a child I heard my parents criticize the church so much that now I have no interest in it."

Suppose, instead, the boy had heard his parents praying for the church. How different his life would have been!

Just Where Does Tito Stand Now?

WASHINGTON — The question most often asked about Marshal Tito's visit to Moscow—as a means of trying to measure what is happening—seems to me to miss the mark. It is a leading question and almost inevitably brings a misleading answer. The question is: Have the new Soviet leaders taken Yugoslavia's Tito into the Kremlin camp?

The honest answer is no but it is the question that is wrong, not the answer.

The real question is not whether Tito was "taken" into the Kremlin camp but whether he walked in voluntarily, sat down and felt at home.

It is going to be very tempting, very easy, for the West to drop Tito like a hot hammer-and-sickle and maybe the time will come when we should. But it would be foolish not to wait for a fuller disclosure of exactly where Tito is taking his country. If he is to become an uncritical ally of everything the Kremlin wants, there is no reason why the United States should help strengthen Yugoslavia in order that Yugoslavia can more effectively work for the same anti-West ends Moscow seeks.

Tito's conduct throughout his visit to Moscow seems to me to raise the gravest doubts about where he is headed and I should think that we would need to take a hard, new look before deciding whether Yugoslavia is a "trustworthy neutral."

But all the evidence is not on one side and it is possible that after the first warm glow of Soviet hospitality Marshal Tito may see some things a little differently.

In 1948 Tito threw off the discipline of Stalin. Now in the joint communique from Moscow, Tito has successfully asserted the independence of the Yugoslavia Communist Party from Kremlin dictation. He forced the Soviet leaders to recognize in principle the "equal" status of non-Soviet Communist parties.

This is pure Titoism and a bitter, perhaps dangerous pill for the Kremlin to swallow. It could weaken the discipline of the Communists everywhere outside Russia—not the least in countries like Czechoslovakia and Poland.

But of what value is it to the free world to have Tito successfully flaunt his "independence" before the Soviet leaders if he uses that independence to follow uncritically, almost totally, the Soviet line?

Tito is admitted by the Kremlin to be "equal" and "independent." That is all to the good but if Tito uses his "equality" to hew to the Soviet line voluntarily he would be even a more useful ally of Soviet purposes. All the facts are not yet in. We need to wait and see—but not too long.

Democrats Showing Greater Confidence

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.—Very impressive at the annual governors' conference here so far as Democrats are concerned is the manifest determination to avoid a North-South split at the party's August convention at Chicago. You find duplicated among leaders of the party here outside of the South the same confidence so often expressed by Southern Democratic leaders in Congress that the party will be able to agree on a civil rights plank in its platform without a "walkout" from the convention by Southerners.

There is evident a new spirit of tolerance in which both sides seem to be seeking middle ground. This is exhibited most strikingly by a definite relaxation in formerly rigid attitudes by Northern figures hitherto regarded as somewhat extreme, among them Gov. Harriman of New York and Gov. Williams of Michigan.

It is apparent that some quiet missionary work has been going on across the Mason and Dixon Line.

What all this reflects is a new optimism among Democrats as they look toward the November election, which means that the presidential nomination now has a more alluring aspect. That naturally conduces to a desire for party harmony among the aspirants so that there will be a united party to lead—or, at least, as near a united party as is possible for Democrats.

The vibrant feeling among Democrats was expressed by one of the party's new and up-and-coming Eastern leaders, Gov. Robert Meyner of New Jersey, who observed that the party is in better shape today in every way than it was four years ago. This, he said, is plain in the composition of the governors conference. Four years ago there were 30 Republican governors, 18 Democratic; today there are 27 Democratic governors, 21 Republican.

A check here indicates that one reason why Democrats believe their chances for victory are better is the health of President Eisenhower which they say—and Republicans are inclined to agree—will have a tendency to reduce his vote, though Republicans insist he will run once more and win easily.

The civil rights issue was raised here repeatedly in newspaper interviews with the governors, both Democratic and Republican.

Both Gov. Harriman and Gov. Williams were very careful to detach themselves from any intention of driving the South out of the party. In fact, both were sure that the convention could write a plank on civil rights that would be acceptable to a majority of delegates, North and South.

Both disassociated themselves from advocacy of use of force to compel integration other than the legal force of the courts as prescribed by the Supreme Court.

A tolerant view toward the South and its segregation problem was taken also by another Northerner, Gov. Meyner of this state. He said that "mere words" in a platform are not going to accomplish anything. Discrimination problems, he said, are not confined to the South but exist elsewhere, including his own state and many other parts of the North. Only recently, he said, there was a case of segregation in a New Jersey district which required intervention by the state to rectify.

Winds Smash 3 Planes At Savannah Airport

High winds which lasted only a few minutes demolished three private planes in a hangar at Travis Airport at Savannah Monday afternoon.

Witnesses said the wind snapped three-quarter-inch rope lines holding a Piper Cruiser and a Tailor Craft and sent them crashing into the ceiling. A hole was smashed in the side of the hangar and the wings of one plane remained caught in the hangar loft.

One of the planes landed on top of the fuselage of a third plane undergoing major overhaul, and destroyed the fuselage. A fourth plane, a Cessna 170, was tipped over and damaged slightly, while four more planes in the hangar were unscratched.

Frank Lehardy, city airport manager, said the Butler-type hangar, constructed during World War II with open ends, seems susceptible to creation of "cyclonic effects" when strong winds are in the vicinity. He reported several similar instances in recent years.

Aerial Joyrider In C47 Gets Air All to Himself

WIESBADEN, Germany, June 25 (AP)—Military planes on the U.S. air base at Frankfurt and Wiesbaden were grounded for an hour today while a 25-year-old airman took an aerial joyride.

The Air Force said Airman 1.C. Thomas H. Smith, a flight engineer from Sitka, Alaska, took the controls of a twin-engined C47 and made off without clearance.

Officials said all military and commercial aircraft in the area were immediately notified and Wiesbaden and Rhine-Main bases grounded all their planes.

Capt. Jack A. Griffith of Marysville, Ohio, an instructor pilot, made radio contact with Smith and persuaded him to return to Wiesbaden.

Air Force officials said Griffith expertly guided the runaway back to his home base "where Smith made an acceptable landing without damage to the aircraft."

Smith was taken to a hospital here for observation.

Farmers' Bullets Fly at Cow-Killer Vultures

Constitution State News Service

MACHEN, June 25 — There's a full-scale war throbbing across this Jasper County community between local farmers and a flock of vicious, livestock-killing buzzards.

Recent increases of vultures in the Machen-Shadydale area caused widespread alarm, but it wasn't until last week that farmers of this community decided on united action.

The war started when more than a dozen buzzards swooped down and attacked one of Ira Dopson's herefords and a new calf, killing both.

Dopson has two other cows expecting to calve during the next week or so and he says "no buzzard is going to kill another cow of mine."

So far the farmers have shot several dozen of the killers but that is only a small dent in the large number still perched in treetops throughout this area.

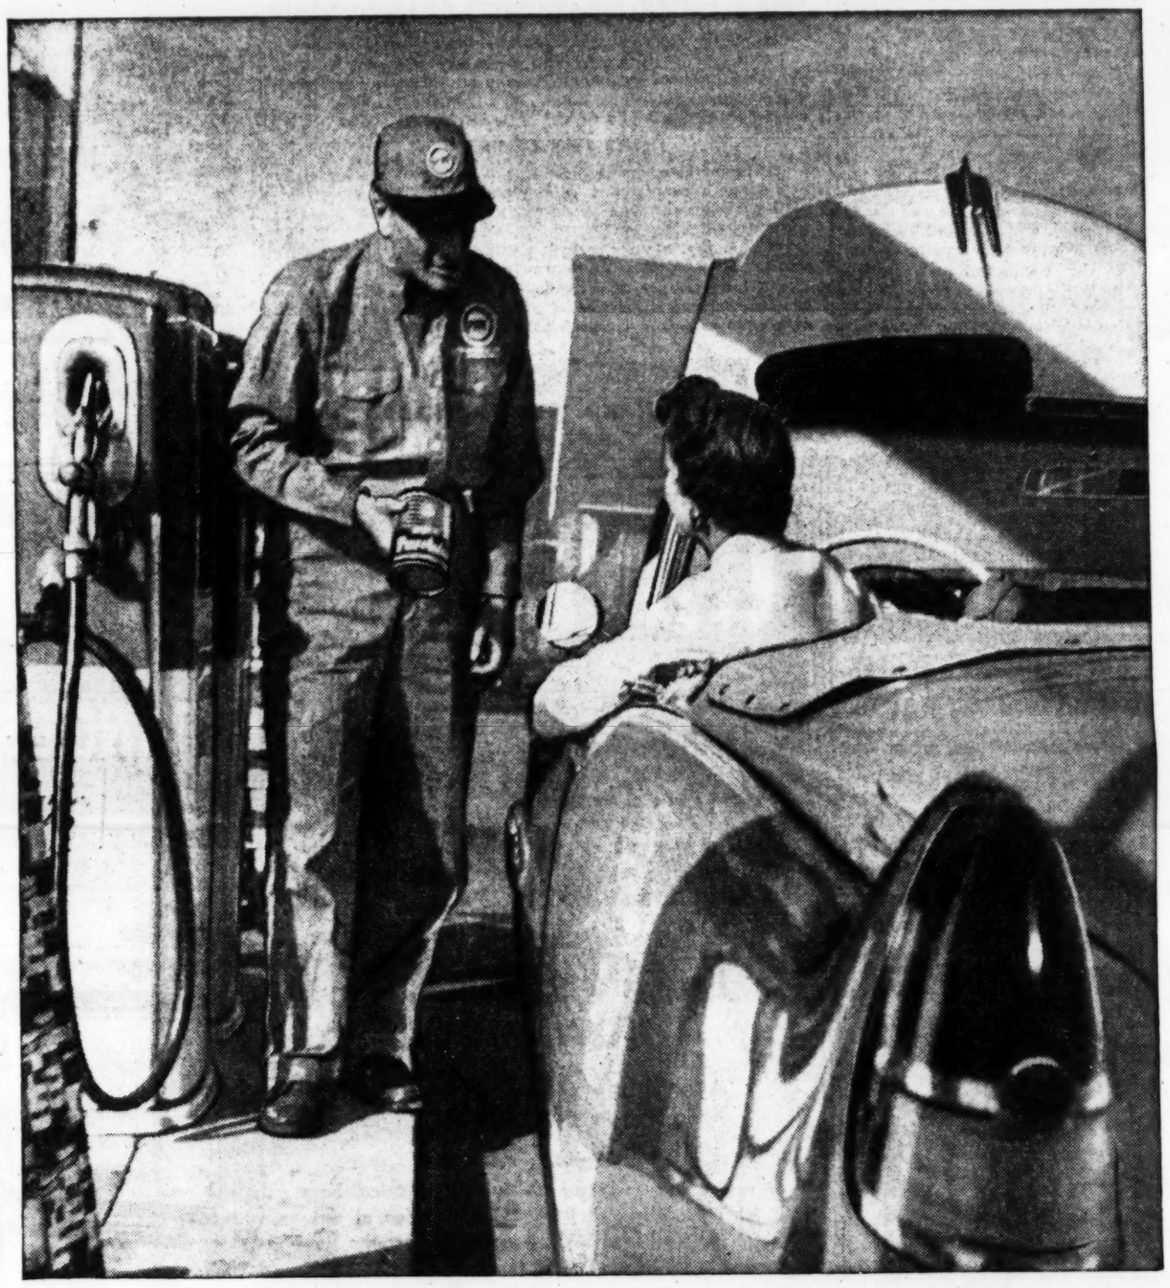
Whether you use regular or premium gasoline...



BURN LESS GAS USE LESS OIL... or both!

CHALLENGING 1,000-MILE OFFER
on PURE'S HIGH-HORSEPOWER COMBINATION of gasoline and motor oil

Use High HP Purelube Motor Oil and PURE Gasoline (Premium or regular, whichever you normally use) for 1,000 miles. If you have been using a 10-W, 20, or 30 grade oil, you will burn less gasoline . . . use less oil, or both . . . or we will give you any oil which may have to be added in a 1,000-mile oil change period. Offer good until July 31, 1956. Ask your Pure Oil dealer for details.

Why we make this offer

We want to help our regular customers and make a lot of new friends. We figure the best way to do this is to let you prove to yourself that you can save on gas, oil, or both, by using High HP Purelube in your crankcase and PURE gasoline in your gas tank.

How the High-Horsepower Combination works

High HP Purelube, with its special combination of high-cleansing additives, cleans up your engine.

PURE'S two great gasolines burn clean because they are made clean by careful processing and refining.

Used together, High HP Purelube and PURE gasoline clean up your engine and keep it clean. They maintain your car's High-Horsepower performance and economy. Prove it in your car.

SPECIAL OCTANE BONUS for High-Horsepower Engines

If your car is a 1953 to 1956 model, it has a high-compression engine, designed to deliver high horsepower. After the "break-in" period, these modern engines tend to develop a thirst for more octane in the gasoline they burn. Unless they get it, they tend to knock and lose power.

PURE'S High-Horsepower Combination keeps your engine clean, actually reduces the deposits which cause this octane thirst.

The result: Your engine gets a special bonus in knock-free power—the equivalent of up to 4 octane numbers. New cars keep their showroom power, older cars regain it.

This special OCTANE BONUS is yours when you use High HP Purelube motor oil and either of two great PURE gasolines. Why not give it a try, starting today?

Downtown Fire Damages 4 Businesses

A three-alarm fire at the beginning of the morning rush hour Monday damaged four business establishments at Whitehall and Garnett streets, SW, and disrupted traffic for more than an hour.

Hardest hit was the R. J. Thomas Furniture Co. at 208 Whitehall St., SW. Patrolmen C. W. Howard and C. O. Anderson said the fire evidently started on the third floor of the furniture company building near an elevator shaft.

The furniture company was heavily damaged, officers said, and smoke and water damage resulted to the Craig Tourial Leather Co. at 204 Whitehall, the Tarbo Soda Co. at 210 Whitehall and the Zakas Bakery at 195 Garnett St., SW, fronting around the corner.

MAP SHOWS PROPOSED DEKALB COUNTY ZONING

Plan Explained at First of Four Area Meetings

South DeKalb Citizens Back County-Wide Zoning Setup

By HAROLD RHODEN

Two hundred south DeKalb citizens approved a county-wide zoning proposal Monday night after goals of the plan were outlined.

Harry Adley, resident planner of the George W. Simons Jr. Co., said the zoning commission should provide for every type of land use without infringing upon other land uses and should accomplish this with as few regulations as possible.

He urged that long-range provisions be made for county services such as garbage and sewage disposal, for residential areas and for industry and shopping centers.

The south DeKalb assembly gave the proposal—covering all the county outside of municipalities—a smooth start, offering fewer than a dozen questions.

Commission Chairman H. M. Conway Jr., told the group that 1,000 new residents move to the county every month, and that one out of every three persons has come into the county since 1950.

"The county must plan or suffer irreparable damage," he said.

Louis Cook, head of the planning department, told the group that of the 63,000 employed persons in DeKalb County, 41,000 work outside the county daily.

Three industrial zones have been proposed in the southwestern corner near Constitution avenue-Southern Railway-U.S. Highway 42; an area between Tucker and Stone Mountain and another area to the north and east of Lithonia.

The hearing, first of four, was held in Avondale High School. Tuesday the commission will hold meetings at Tucker Elementary School; Wednesday at W. D. Thompson Elementary School and Thursday at Chamblee High School.

The meetings begin at 7:30 p.m.

Fire House Dedication And Staff Set

Formal dedication of the new $90,000 fire station No. 30 was set Monday night tentatively for July 23.

The Atlanta board of fire masters set the date subject to approval of Mayor Hartsfield and elected personnel to man the new facility at Waters road and Cleveland avenue, SW.

Lts. Samuel H. Croxton, of station No. 4, and Marion F. McGill, of station No. 1, were elected captains and a crew of 14 firemen was named.

The board also heard Chief Styron report that experts of the Southern Underwriters Association recommended relocation of fire stations No. 1, on Alabama street, SW; No. 4, on Pryor street, NE; No. 5 at Trinity avenue and Spring street, SW; No. 8 at Carnegie Way and Spring street, and No. 16 at Marietta and McMillan street, NW.

The relocations are a part of a long-range improvement program to move stations from highly congested areas.

Work on College Park Code Starts With Simple, Modern Laws the Goal

Work has been launched on drafting of a new city code for College Park.

City Attorney Hank Crawford said he has been making a study of the basic general laws of the city for the City Council, with a view toward simplifying them and bringing the code up to date. He expects to have it ready for the council within 30 days.

Crawford said the new city code will strive to eliminate outdated laws such as one passed in the early 1900's making it unlawful for a woman to appear on city streets wearing short pants or a bathing suit.

The code will deal with such things as city administration, sale of alcoholic beverages within the city, business licenses, general ad valorem taxes and police department functions. Crawford said he expects to prepare a separate section on traffic laws for the council's consideration.

Expert Says Men Are "Starving" Their Hair

Many men actually starve their hair to death!

And though they do it unknowingly, the evidence of hair starvation is plain to see and easy to read.

"Just look for scalp tension—for a hard, tight scalp," says George M. Voss, director of Voss Hair Experts here. He has noted a steady increase in scalp tension during his 30 years' work with balding men, and rates the condition as a major cause of baldness today.

VOSS

What's the connection between tight scalp and starving hair? Expert Voss describes it this way:

"Your hair gets its nourishment from blood which circulates in the pad of tissue between skull and skin. As scalp tension compresses this tissue, blood circulation is hindered. Naturally, hair growth slows down and eventually stops for want of nourishment.

"You just can't grow hair out of skin and bone," he says.

To correct scalp tension and the damages from it, hair expert Voss utilizes impressive techniques: specialized area massage — specialized ultra-violet, high frequency, vibration — specialized routines of hair and scalp hygiene at home.

Offers Free Examination

"Our methods are so successful, we are now getting many new clients recommended by men and women who have completed treatment," Voss declares. "And what better proof of success could there be?"

Remember, if your scalp is getting hard and tight, you're scheduled for baldness unless you take action.

Call on George M. Voss today for a FREE examination examination and discussion of your hair problems. You have nothing to lose—and a good head of hair to gain.

to use any money finally voted, not sequester or otherwise refuse.

Specifically, the Democratic amendment would add $1,112,625,000 for the Air Force. This would bring the total for that service to $16,779,125,000.

UNASKED INCREASE

The actual unasked increase, however, would be $912,625,000, for $200 million for base construction in the amendment in fact already has been sought, in another appropriations measure, by the administration.

This version was offered on behalf of the Democrats by Sen. Chavez of New Mexico.

The Republican alternative is by Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee.

The Bridges paper would provide $500 million and ignore the $200 million base construction item as already in process of being allowed.

ALL-DAY DUEL

Over these two texts, and over a good many connected issues, the Democrats and Republicans duelled all day today.

The rising vehemence on the floor was reflected off the floor. Sen. Duff (R-Pa.) interrupted a Senate subcommittee investigation of air power with the declaration that he was "getting sick" of what he called Democratic efforts to overstate Soviet strength and underplay United States strength.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo) challenged Duff with the assertion that this country's position appeared worse the longer the inquiry went on.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) declared himself "shocked" that Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, had become involved in "partisan politics," as Jackson put it, in the defense controversy.

INTERVIEW REFERENCE

Sen. Jackson referred to a radio interview with Rep. Ostertag (R-NY) in which Allen Dulles was represented as having stated that there was "no evidence" that the Russians were ahead of the United States in intercontinental missile work.

The whole scene was further complicated by the statement of Secretary of the Army Brucker that "a moderate increase" in the budget of that service was "inevitable" for next year.

The Defense department in the meantime is reported considering further cuts in Army strength.

Arms Sales Tied To Cuba Slayings

HAVANA, Cuba, June 25 (AP)—Police said two members of a revolutionary group were slain in Santiago by members of their own organization today because they allegedly sold a quantity of arms entrusted to them.

Police described the slain men, Pedro Otano Alfonso, 26, and Manuel Soto, 28, as members of a group known as Fidelistas, named after Fidel Castro, a student who led an unsuccessful attack against the army barracks in Santiago in 1953. Castro is reported under arrest in Mexico City.

Arias Espinosa suggested a postponement.

The President notified Arias this morning that the new plan for holding the meeting on July 21-22 was agreeable to him. Hagerty had no details on the trip, except to say that Mr. Eisenhower will go to Panama by plane.

The President's conference with Nehru, originally scheduled to begin on July 7, was put off at Nehru's suggestion.

Nehru, now in London, telegraphed the President that he does not wish their contemplated meeting to "impose an additional strain on you during your convalescence."

Mr. Eisenhower, in reply, thanked Nehru for his "considerate suggestion." He said that while he plans the trip to Panama, "I cannot be entirely free of doubt as to whether my recuperation will be far enough advanced by July 7 to have the kind of talks which we both had in mind."

be to "work out our problem within the Democratic party."

And Florida's Gov. Collins declared the South Carolina bid had the "ostensible purpose" of laying the seeds "for what looks like the organization of an ultimate third party movement."

The South Carolina resolution makes no mention of walkout or third party, but rather hews to a within-the-party tone. It calls for another meeting of the state convention after the national convention and urges similar action by other "like-minded" states.

Bell, who was in Atlanta Monday, said that though he knew nothing of the Timmerman announcement, "I would be glad at any time to sit down with any group of persons and discuss matters regarding the maintaining of unity within the Democratic party and the preservation of constitutional government for the South and nation."

lition between the winning Progressive coalition and the losing Conservatives, at least for the present.

The head of the Progressive party, Hermann Jonasson, who singly precipitated the NATO crisis by forcing an Althing vote on the troops withdrawal-resolution on the last day of the parliamentary session May 28, has long been the arch political foe of Thors and his Independence group.

On the basis of projections from partially complete returns, and assuming the long "safe districts" would remain so, the Progressive-Social Democratic alliance was credited by their political opponents tonight with at least 25 Althing seats. Two more would give them a clear majority in parliament.

On the same basis, the Conservative Independence party's strength had dropped in parliament to 18 sure seats, compared to their present 21. The Communist candidates who piled up unexpectedly large votes in the cities were believed to have gained at least one seat over their present seven.

New Red A-Blast?

TOKYO, Tuesday, June 26 (UP)—A Japanese scientist reported today that Russia may have exploded another nuclear device last week. Dr. Hironobu Watanabe, of Niigata University, based his belief on radioactivity checks made on rain which fell in Niigata last week. He estimated the time of the possible Soviet test blast as June 19 or 20.

naval aviator's wings. In a service traditionally the bailiwick of younger men, he rose rapidly. Few senior officers had the aviation experience necessary for command posts in the growing naval arm.

King began his naval career as an ensign and served out routine assignments of a junior officer until 1915 when he joined the staff of Adm. Henry T. Mayo.

As a member of Mayo's staff, King saw the 1917-1918 Battle of the Atlantic from the best possible vantage point, gaining experience which helped fight German U-boats in World War II.

In 1925, King, who already was gaining the reputation of a hard-bitten, fighting leader who never gave up, was given the command of the submarine base at New London, Conn.

It was perhaps here that he began what would become one of the most spectacular ascents on the naval ladder.

And it was here that King achieved the first of many "impossibles." He salvaged the submarine S-51 which sank in 132 feet of water off Block Island, R.I. A sub had never before been raised from such a depth.

For that, King was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal. Two years later he repeated the "impossible" when the submarine S-4 went down.

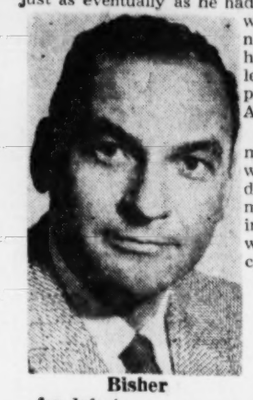
Front Office Lightning

It was Del Baker, I'm sure, who said that "all baseball managers can look forward to an eventual termination of their contract." Or words to that effect.

Baker had just succeeded Mickey Cochrane at Detroit in 1938. His future included a pennant in it, won in the season of 1940, but just as eventually as he had predicted, it also included the firing, which came two years after the pennant. To my knowledge, no manager has ever died on the job in the major leagues, in spite of all the apoplectic possibilities that come with the position, American plan.



Bisher

So Fred Haney, who has the hottest machine this side of Las Vegas, is working his way toward the eventual dismissal that comes to all baseball managers. Haney's method, however, is intoxicatingly delightful. He has all Milwaukee crazy on the stuff, and nobody's crazier than the Braves themselves.

They have yet to taste defeat with Haney as of Monday. The same cannot be said for Haney. He once managed the St. Louis Browns, (ret.), and the Pittsburgh Pirates, and in each tenure it seemed that he had finally perfected the formula for defeat.

It would seem strange, then, that the Braves selected one so thoroughly steeled in defeat to rescue their perishing crew when Charlie Grimm, who won three times with the Chicago Cubs, could not stir up a rally. It seems, though, that this has been the plan since the winter, when Haney was hired, and when the Braves' front office took into its own hands the authority for jazzing up what it considered a complacent coaching staff.

Johnny Cooney, apparently on permanent duty with the Braves, was let out. Bucky Walters was able to beat the axe and came up with a Giant connection. Front office lightning struck.

—Grimm Was Kept Informed

Haney himself unwittingly certified this as fact as he succeeded Grimm last week. "Before I took the job," he said, "I flew to St. Louis to talk it over with Charlie."

The job, in other words, was not offered by Grimm, but highly ethical in his methods, Haney wanted no intrigue creeping into the new arrangement. There was intrigue, however. The Braves were padding themselves for the worst, in case it came, and it can't be denied here or there that Grimm was kept fully informed of the fears, hopes and other assorted emotions of the office of Lou Perini and Joe Cairnes.

It is Cairnes, off Perini's personal staff, who actually runs the Braves. John Quinn is the general manager, but Quinn is man under fire and fully as susceptible to the termination of contract as was Grimm. He is in charge of assembling and presenting the uniformed Braves, and of securing the manager and the men designed to produce a championship team. He is accountable at all times, however, to Cairnes, who represents the man with the investment, Perini.

It became obvious in the spring that Grimm believed what he had been reading in the papers. Somehow or another, a story leaked out that the Braves had made it rather plain to Charlie.

"The Braves must be well up in the race by June 15," a United Press writer said, "or Grimm will be out and he will be replaced by Leo Durocher." Substitute Haney for Durocher and you still don't ease the tension for Grimm.

—A Portrait of Tension

It was written all over his face in the spring that the press was on. He was not the loose-as-ashes Grimm a fellow is accustomed to in a Milwaukee atmosphere. There was fatigue in his face. Even his wrinkles had wrinkles. The laugh was gone from his eyes. Not once did I see him break out that left-handed banjo and play capriciously.

When I saw him in Milwaukee in April there was no change. The Braves were in first place in the league and also in rainfall, but this did not make of Grimm a happy man. There was still the fatigue, the unlaughing eyes, the wrinkles with wrinkles. He did not like to hear the telephone ring. Now and then he snarled. But he snarled at the wrong people. He didn't snarl at the Braves, who needed some snarling-at.

There was no joy about the clubhouse. A couple of guys muttered carefully that "this isn't what I was expecting in the big leagues."

They say a baseball club reflects the attitude and the emotions of its manager. As surely as Grimm was apprehensive, so were his Braves. When the stumbling Dodgers made it public that the pennant was there for the grabbing, and when the Braves did not grab, the panic was on in Milwaukee.

I've been remembering through the season something Dusty Rhodes, who is not a noted forecaster, said last winter of the Dodgers. "Them guys across the river," he said, "they're getting too old. The Giants'll win the pennant by 15 games."

It won't be the Giants, but Dusty gets credit for seeing death's tattletale grey creeping over the Dodgers. The best substitute he could offer was the Giants, for they pay him. He didn't know it might be the Braves. He didn't know who might be running the shop after the middle of June.

Braves Roll On, Win 11th

Slug Phillies In 8-5 Game

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves powered their way past the Philadelphia Phillies for their 11th straight triumph 8-5, tonight at Connie Mack Stadium on the booming bats of Eddie Mathews and Bobby Thomson.

The Phillies tied it 5-5 in the eighth with Willie Jones' three-run homer.

But Milwaukee came back with a ninth-inning rally that opened with a double by Johnny Logan followed by a pair of bunts back to back by pinch-hitters Andy Pafko and Del Crandall, the latter a squeeze play. Harvey Haddix had replaced starter Stu Miller. He walked the dangerous Mathews who had homered earlier only to have Thomson, who also homered, singled and in the second and third runs of the inning.

Thomson hit homer No. 10 with the bases empty in the second to tie the game and in the fourth Mathews hit the first pitch of the inning over the right-field wall for his 12th of the season.

Montag Clobbers Pair As Crackers Win, 5-1

Daniels Adds One in Fifth

By JESSE OUTLAR
Constitution Sports Writer

LITTLE ROCK, June 25—There was a power shortage at Traveler Field Monday night, but not on the part of the Atlanta Crackers, who increased their homer output to 13 in five games via two socks by Bob Montag and one by Jack Daniels in a 5-1 licking of lowly Little Rock.

Montag, looking like the Cracker all-time homer king, which he is, smashed his No. 14 clouft in the fifth and got No. 15 in his next swing in the seventh. Daniels muscled his No. 14, before Montag unloaded a near 400-footer over the right-center sector in the fifth.

Lee Anthony, making his first start for the Travelers, was the victim, and Corky Valentine was the beneficiary. In reeling off his fifth straight triumph and sixth in seven decisions, Valentine flipped a snazzy five-hitter at the Travelers. Andy Frazier's drive over the left-field barrier in the fifth foiled Corky's shutout bid.

The power shortage occurred in the fourth round, delaying the game some 15 minutes. But the Crackers didn't seem to notice that one of the light towers wasn't working when playing was resumed.

BOB MONTAG
Big Night at Little Rock

Valentine Checks Travs

Like so many other nights of late, it just wasn't the Travelers' night, and the management even had trouble in giving away a car, which helped lure some 2,200 customers out for "North Little Rock Night." Two ticket holders turned up with identical winning numbers, due to a conflict in dates. So the guy with June 25 won it and, like the Crackers, went away happy.

For the revived Crackers, who have been flexing their muscles with homers in nine games in a row, it was victory No. 6 in 7 games. For the Travelers, who are sinking deeper in the basement, it was their 27th setback in 35 games.

The Travelers started out in a generous mood, staking the Crackers to an unearned run in the first. Dixie Upright dropped Jack Daniels' blow to right, then kicked it around for a three-base error. Buck Riddle followed with a run-making single to left.

Riddle then scored the next Cracker run in the fourth on Frank Sacka's sacrifice fly. Riddle had singled, moved to

Fowler Five-Hits Pirates As Big Klu Slaps Homer

Cincinnati Squeeks Past Bucs, 2-1; Jablonski Drives in Decisive Run

PITTSBURGH, June 25 (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs scored two runs in the seventh inning tonight on Ted Kluszewski's 14th homer of the year and a sacrifice fly to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1. Art Fowler held the Pirates to just five hits for his fifth victory in 12 decisions.

Kluszewski hit his homer to open the seventh off right-hander Ronnie Kline. Frank Robinson singled and raced to third on Ed Bailey's single. Ray Jablonski drove a fly to center, scoring Robinson. Roy McMillan rapped out another single, but Kline retired the next two men.

The loss dropped Pittsburgh into fifth place behind the idle St. Louis Cardinals.

After allowing the Pirates one run on two hits in the second, Fowler blanked them the rest of the way. He walked only one and struck out three.

Bums Beat Cubs, 3-2

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 25 (AP)—Junior Gilliam's eighth-inning triple sandwiched between two errors, broke up a dandy pitching job by young Don Kaiser tonight as the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs 3-2.

Kaiser, a 21-year-old righthander who had beaten the world champions with a two-hitter in his first major league start three weeks ago, had allowed only three hits until the errant eighth, permitting only a seventh-inning single after the first inning.

Siebern Slugs Pair as Yanks Beat A's, 9-3

KANSAS CITY, June 25 (AP)—A couple of homers by Norm Siebern and one each by Hank Bauer and Joe Collins paced the New York Yankees to a 9-3 victory over the Kansas City Athletics tonight. Mickey Mantle failed to hit homer No. 28 but collected a triple and three singles in five times up — two of the singles against the A's previously-effective "Mantle shift."

Yogi Berra, who had failed to get a hit in 23 previous times at bat, doubled in the ninth to break the spell, but to no avail.

Johnny Kucks went the route for the Yankees, posting his 10th victory against three setbacks. He

SHADES OF 'TRADER' LANE

COMISKEY'S BARGAINS STEP ON YANKS' 'BLUE SUEDE SHOES'

CHICAGO, June 25 (AP)—Much to the bitter chagrin of the New York Yankees, White Sox vice president Chuck Comiskey learned his lessons only too well from his erstwhile tutor, frantic Frank Lane.

Chuck Comiskey

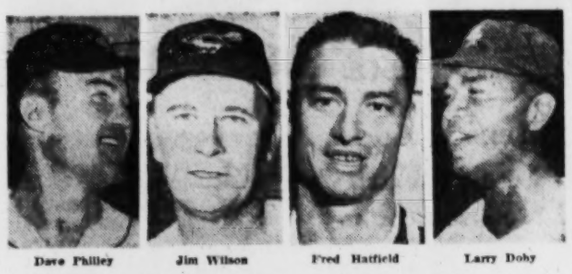
In his own quiet way, Comiskey has engineered deals this year—his first as real White Sox boss—which have accomplished what Yankee-hater Lane, as a wild trading Sox general manager, only dreamed of doing—a home massacre of the proud New Yorkers.

If you ask Sox Manager Marty Marion why his club has spurted so amazingly to within one game of the suddenly-jolted Yankees, he tosses out three names — pitcher Jim Wilson, third sacker Fred Hatfield and outfielder Dave Philley.

These are players Comiskey acquired last month.

And young Chuck, grandson of "Old Roman" Charles Comiskey, also engineered one of the big deals last winter, outfielder Larry Doby from the Cleveland Indians for shortstop Chico Carrasquel and outfielder Jim Busby.

It was a gamble for long-ball help and many thought Chuck gave away too much.



Dave Philley — Jim Wilson — Fred Hatfield — Larry Doby

But he certainly was vindicated Sunday as Doby, more or less a bust since spring training, blasted two three-run homers to start a double Yankee downfall which wrapped a four-game Sox sweep over Casey Stengel's befuddled stalwarts.

Behind the Doby deal was another big risk—would rookie Luis Aparicio fill the big defensive shoes of Carrasquel? He has done it so well he may be the American League rookie-of-the-year.

So it was a "new faces" cast which humiliated Stengel, Mantle, Berra & Co. last weekend to give the White Sox the longest winning streak in the league this season, eight straight.

Stengel blamed himself for last Friday night's 5-4 defeat in 12 innings because he underrated "a third rater," Sammy Esposito, who won the game with a bases loaded single.

Saturday, the brilliant Wilson hurled a four-hitter to beat the Yankees, but actually it might have been the fiery spirit of Philley which made the difference.

Hit by Bob Grim with a pitched ball, Philley charged the Yankee pitcher on the mound like a wounded tiger. Neither came close to swinging an effective punch. But Grim undoubtedly was upset and gave up both runs that same inning for a 2-0 loss.

Philley was fined $250 for the tantrum. He also was fined $100 the previous week at New York for a ball-and-strike debate. That's the snarliest disposition the Sox ever showed before against the Yanks.

Wilson unquestionably has been the big wheel in the Sox drive. Since he came to the Sox from the Baltimore Orioles in a six-player deal May 21, Wilson has pitched at a 6-1 clip—an important half-dozen victories in 26 days.

An unsung newcomer, Hatfield has been a fine performer at third base, long a defensive sore spot with the Sox, especially with former Chicagoan, George Kell, in various degrees of health.

Winner Predicted

NEW YORK—Jimmy Demaret picked Cary Middlecoff to win this year's U.S. Open Golf title after the first 36 holes of the 72-hole grind. "Cary should win the way he's playing," said Demaret. Middlecoff won with 281.

Reynolds Medalist In State Amateur

Simpson Takes Junior Trophy; Crawford Opens Title Defense

By BERT PRATHER

Pert Mary Ann Reynolds of Albany, runner-up to Americus' Mary Crawford in last year's Georgia Women's State, launched her drive for the 1956 crown Monday at East Lake Country Club's No. 1 course by capturing the qualifying medal over a field of 109 starters with a score of 39-41—80.

Mary Ann, who holds the state's medal play tournament title, thus moved into the No. 2 spot in the championship draw of 32 and will meet Mrs. Harold Denson, the East Lake Club champion in one of Tuesday's feature first-round matches at 9:56 a.m.

Mrs. Reynolds barely edged out Atlanta Women's champ Janice Phelps in the medal chase, which produced much higher scores than had been anticipated. Miss Phelps shot a 40-41—81. Former City queen Madge McDonald was next with 40-42—82.

Teen-ager Peggy Simpson of Athens, came through with a 42-42—84 to take the prize offered for the lowest junior qualifier. Her score tied Mrs. Donald Stewart of Savannah for fourth qualifying spot.

While the other ladies were tussling with the contrary East Lake layout, the defending champion was taking it easy by playing a leisurely practice round. She did not have to qualify, so her No. 1 place in Tuesday's match play draw was automatic. Miss Crawford's first-round foe is Mrs. Pete George of Brunswick, who qualified with a 94. They tee off at 9 a.m.

Phelps, who could be the one to prevent another Crawford-Reynolds finals, drew Billie Wickliffe, a capable player from Athens, as her opening foe.

The team trophy, which is decided during qualifying play, went to the Ansley Golf Club duo of McDonald and Barbara Gailmard. Their winning score was 168.

Five 98 shooters had to engage in a sudden-death play-off for the last four places in the championship. Irene Aden, Mrs. Alex Wilson and Mrs. Curtis Jordan of Columbus clinched their positions on the first hole, but Mrs. E. W. Simmons had to go to the third extra hole before sending Mrs. John Simpson of Athens into the second flight.

The tournament runs through Saturday.

Leonard Fires 67 for Lead InCanadaCup

By STERLING SLAPPEY

VIRGINIA WATER, England, June 25 (AP)—Stan Leonard of Canada came home with a 67 at the close of a hot, sunny afternoon today to steal the lead and thunder from Ben Hogan in the Canada Cup Golf Tournament.

The stocky, balding little Canadian—playing with a bushy-haired partner named Al Balding—shot a string of birdies on the final three holes of the last match of the day.

He edged in ahead of America's Hogan by a stroke in the individual International championship and, along with Balding, who had a 72, put Canada into a three-stroke lead over the United States for the Canada Cup international team championship.

Leonard's individual total at the halfway mark of the 72-hole golf showpiece was 136 to 137 for Hogan. Canada's team total was 283 to 286 for the United States.

Hogan held second place after super golf played at a duffer's pace.

Hogan, his American team partner, Sam Snead, and a pair of Englishmen played for 5 hours around Wentworth's 6,936 - yard course. Hogan had a 69, to go with yesterday's 68, after his hot, sultry work. Snead, playing with a sharp pain in his right hand, took a 73 for a 149 total. He had 76 yesterday.

N. Texas State Leads College Golf; Ga. 13th

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 25 (AP)—Two Hoosier sharpshooters, senior Rudy Boyd of Northwestern and junior Bill Redding of Purdue, today paced the first half of the qualifier for the 59th National Intercollegiate Golf Championship at Ohio State University's 7,120-yard, par 72 course.

Boyd, a native of La Porte, Ind., scored a 34-38—72 early in the day and Redding, from Logansport, Ind., stormed through the dusy to tie him as darkness left several of the 246-starters stranded on the course.

In the race for the team championship based on four-man scores for the two-day qualifier, North Texas State moved out front by seven strokes with a 297 effort. Tied in second place with 304 were Southern California and Oklahoma A&M. Other team scores were: Houston and Notre Dame 305, Purdue 306, Florida State, Texas Tech, Oregon and Stanford 307, San Jose State 308, defending champion Louisiana State 309, Georgia and Ohio State 312, North Carolina 313, Pinceton 317, Oklahoma and Illinois 318, Minnesota and Northwestern 319, Yale 321, Iowa 323; Bowling Green 332, University of Buffalo 334 and San Diego 353.

White AMOCO-GAS Guarantees

no lead fouling

Lead fouling is a power-robber caused by lead that's used in all gasolines but one—and that one is clear-white Amoco-Gas. Lead in a gasoline doesn't all burn. Crusty lead deposits form and foul up engine operation—and that's true of any leaded gasoline regardless of fancy color, fancy pump or fancy name. These deposits waste octane power. And no additive in the world can remove them, once they form.

Amoco-Gas alone can guarantee no lead fouling . . . it contains no lead, it can never leave a single lead deposit. Amoco is 100% POWER—with all the high octane that any car can use.

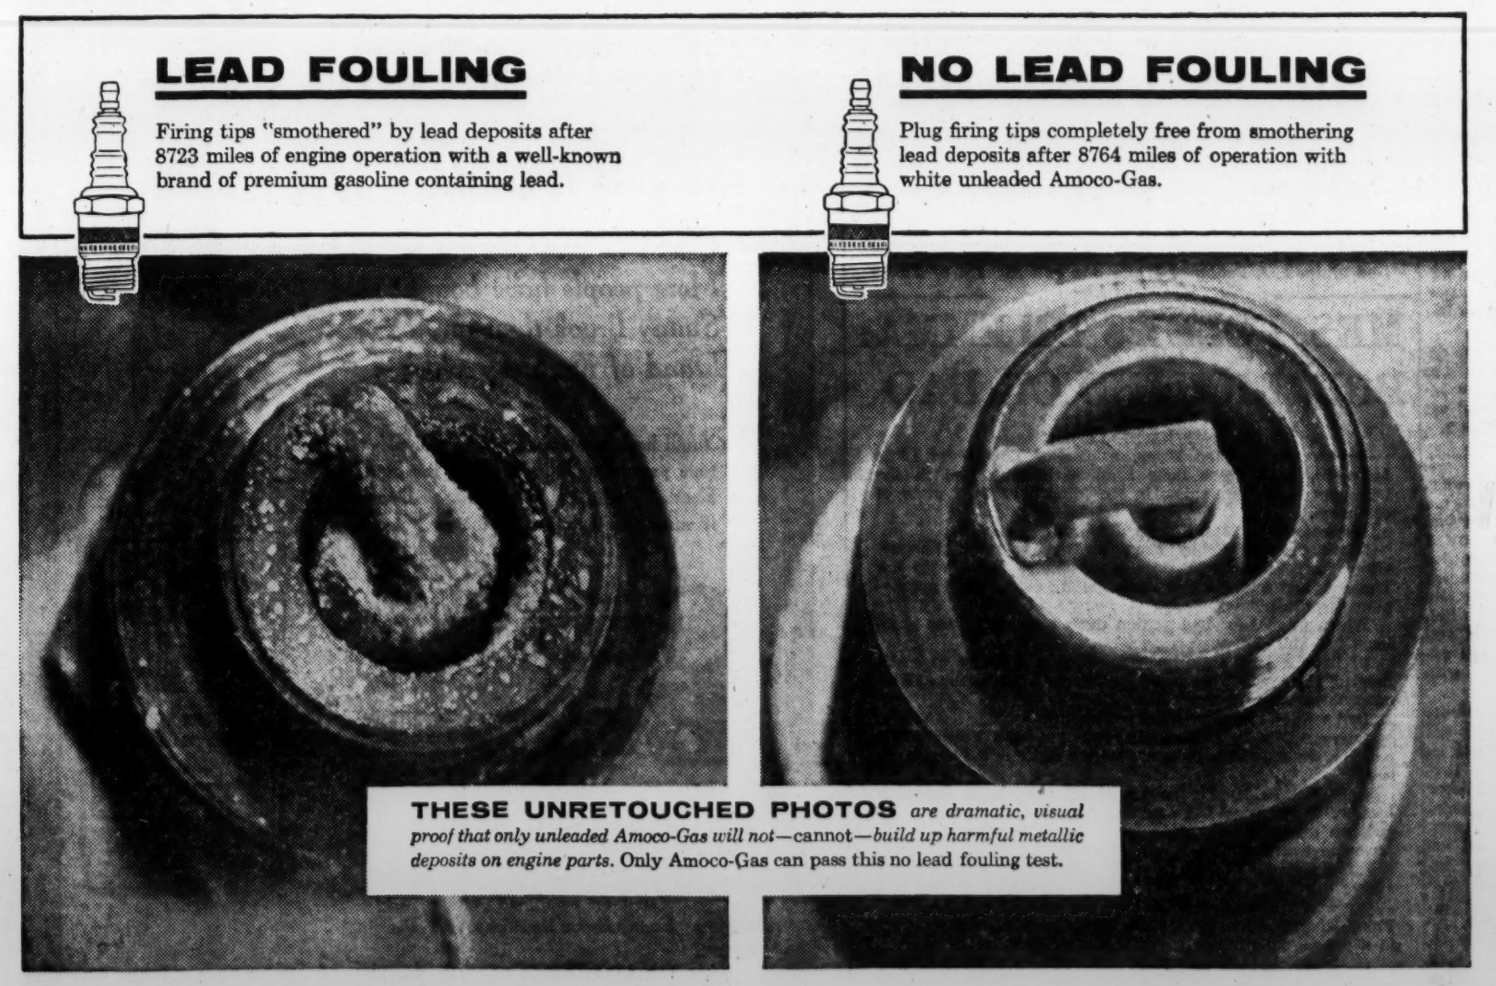
You'll see the difference when you buy it—only Amoco-Gas is clear white.

And you'll see the difference when you use it—watch that mileage record improve!

LOOK WHAT HAPPENS TO SPARK PLUGS:



LEAD FOULING

Firing tips "smothered" by lead deposits after 8723 miles of engine operation with a well-known brand of premium gasoline containing lead.

NO LEAD FOULING

Plug firing tips completely free from smothering lead deposits after 8764 miles of operation with white unleaded Amoco-Gas.

Low-Seeded Seixas Wins at Wimbledon

Drobny Stunned by Indian; Dorish Goes Home to Bosox

Compiled From Wire Reports

Tireless Vic Seixas of Philadelphia led a large squad of Americans forward Monday in the first round of the Wimbledon tennis championships, staggered by one of the biggest opening day upsets in the British event's history.

Romanathan Krishnan, 19-year-old Indian economics student who decided at the last minute to play, erased fifth-seeded Jaroslav Drobny, the 1954 winner, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Seixas, the 1953 champion stung by lowly No. 8 seeding, toyed with Malcolm Fox of Baltimore, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

No other upsets were recorded in the first round which also saw ordered sidelined for at least a week. . . . Mel Allen and Al Helfer have been assigned to handle the television commentary for the All-Star Game at Griffith Stadium in Washington, July 10. . . . gave up four hits and two runs in the first but settled down after that. He held the A's to a total of nine hits, striking out two and walking three.

Jack McMahon, just acquired from Pittsburgh and making his first apearance for the A's, was the last of four pitchers used by Kansas City in a vain effort to stem the 14-hit onslaught.

Mantle, in his first appearance against the "Mantle shift" tonight —in th third inning—let the count go to three and two and then beat out a bunt toward short. The shift, devised by A's manager Lou Boudreau, is used only when the ambidextrous slugger bats left-handed, and switches most of the A's defensive strength far to the right.

In the fifth inning, his second appearance against the shift, Mickey hit sharply to Cletis Boyer, Kansas City second baseman playing in shallow right. Boyer fielded the ball and fired to first, but too late.

FISH BITE LIKE MOSQUITOES IN DREAMLAND IN ONTARIO

By BILL ALLEN
Constitution Sports Writer

NIPIGON, Ontario—If, all your life, you've had a dream, imagine now that it has come true, and you're on the same cloud I'm on up here.

Bill Allen

Though not so untouched as we'd like to think of Canada as being, the Nipigon area still is wild enough for me to have seen two moose, three bears, and taken trout limit on a brush country stream inaccessible by auto. And I had the limit in an hour and a half—really heartbreaking.

I was fishing with Don Gapen, inventor of the muddler streamer, and next to Joe Brooks of Islamorada, Fla., maybe the best fly caster alive. He knows this country like the palm of his hand, and was among the first to take parties after the large speckled brook trout monsters on Nipigon Lake and in the feeder streams of the Nipigon River.

That is the attraction of this place. The big Brookies. A 15-pound brook trout was taken here about 30 years ago and folks have been trying since to equal it.

They've come close—if 11 pounds is close—and no one has come any closer anywhere else on the North American continent.

Today in the Gravel River 29 miles east of here, Gapen and I stroked for several good Brookies—the largest a two-pound specimen. He was only about 15 inches long—but they are so monstrously fat up here—broad like a bass almost—nothing like our stocked brook trout, in Georgia.

The operators of the Nipigon Information Service here, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Bobay, have been the open sesame for this family of five campers, introducing us to Don and his family. They also directed us to a most beautiful camping spot on Lake Helen between Lake Superior and Lake Nipigon near the waterway between them.

The Bobays planned a picnic and surprised us by having a fishing trip for walleyes and northerns planned. More of that later in a piece on Canadian Lake fishing for northern and brook.

Next, I'm trekking up into the wilds where a man named Leroy Smith has summoned us to get in on the big brook catches they are having.

Incidentally, they use the same lures in the streams hereabouts that they use in a lake—even the same size. While we caught most of our trout on the muddler streamer, I caught a large brook and lost a rainbow that might have weighed four pounds on a red and white daredevil imp—by far the most popular bait up here, along with other wobble spoons that look something like it.

The water is not "sky-blue" as you would imagine but dark brown-red—a rich color, like deep south Georgia bass water. The Tamarack does it here.

I recommend this place to anyone who wants to catch fish, but they should be prepared for bugs: mosquitoes, sand flies, black flies and "NO-See-Um's" properly named by the Indians, and pronounced NAU-SE-UM in my book — they're like torches.

But, then, it's the only place I've ever been where the fish bite like the mosquitoes. You can stand it that way.

Courtney HR Extends Skid For Tigers

DETROIT, June 25 (AP) — Clint Courtney's two-run pinch homer in the eighth gave the Washington Nationals a 5-3 victory over Detroit today and sent the Tigers reeling to their ninth straight defeat.

Washington Manager Charlie Dressen went against the book in sending up Courtney, a left-handed hitter, to bat against southpaw Billy Hoeft. But the little catcher, who had hit only one home run this season, sent Hoeft's first offering into the lower right field deck and scored behind Eddie FitzGerald, who had reached base on a single.

The Senators broke a four-game losing streak of their own.

Win-Starved Chicks Turn on Barons, 11-4

Blast Leaders With 16 Hits; Lary Takes Fifth Straight

Compiled From Wire Reports

The Memphis Chicks pulled out of an extended batting slump Monday night at Memphis, getting 16 hits off three Birmingham pitchers and beating the league-leading Barons, 11-4.

In other Southern Assn. games, Gene Lary made it five straight victories as the right-hander pitched Mobile to a 3-1 series opening win over Nashville at Mobile, and Emil Panko drove in three runs with a home run and two singles to lead New Orleans to a 6-2 triumph over Chattanooga on the Pelicans' field.

The Chicks got a home run (Joe Kirrene), three triples and five doubles as they chased John Wingo, one of the league's top pitchers. Every Chick except Al Papai got at least one hit.

Lary's victory gave him a 6-5 record. He gave up only six hits.

Don Dangleis pitched all the way for the New Orleans victory. Panko's three RBIs upped his seasonal total to 63.

HAPPY JOE NUXHALL AND LEAGUE-LEADER
Ed Bailey (R) Holds Best Bat Average In National

STATISTICALLY SPEAKING

Bailey Follows Redleg Tradition, Zooms to National Bat Leadership

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—Only two Cincinnati players have won National League batting championships in the past 30 seasons and both have been catchers. Ed Bailey, the Redlegs' current mask and mitt man, is hoping to become the third this year.

Bailey, a second-string receiver at the outset of the season and a .282 hitter in the minors last year, has taken over the NL hitting lead with a .347 average. Figures include games through Sunday.

The last Cincinnati catcher to capture the crown was Ernie Lombardi, who batted .342 in 1938. Lombardi repeated the feat in 1942 as a member of the Boston Braves. The other Redleg backstop to gain batting laurels was Eugene (Bubbles) Hargrave, who set the pace in 1926 with a .353 mark. Lombardi and Hargrave are the only National League catchers ever to win hitting titles.

Bailey, who was sent to San Diego of the PCL after batting .197 in 1954 and .205 in 21 games with the Redlegs in 1955, has succeeded Smoky Burgess as the Rhinelander's No. 1 catcher. The 25-year-old left-handed swinger collected seven hits in 22 at bats last week. Five of the safeties were home runs.

Second a week ago, Bailey lost 5 points but displaced the slumping Dale Long of Pittsburgh, who fell to third. St. Louis' Ken Boyer moved from third to runner-up at .338—9 points behind Bailey—and Long skidded to third at .330. Boyer went 10-for-30 and his average stayed the same, while Long had just one hit in 20 trips and he suffered a 29-point decline.

Wally Moon of the Cards and Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente are tied for fourth with .327. Moon, fifth last week, lost 3 points and Clemente, who had fourth all to himself, dipped 6 points.

In the American League race, Mickey Mantle continues his batting superiority with a .376 mark. The Yanks' switch-hitting slugger also is tops in homers with 27 and runs batted in with 66. Mantle went 8-for-25 during the week and lost 7 points.

Detroit's Charley Maxwell is second with .361, followed by teammate Harvey Kuenn at .352. Maxwell, runner-up a week ago, tapered off 5 points on 7-for-21 and Kuenn, in advancing from fourth, dropped 4 points with 1-for-5. Kuenn has been hampered by a leg injury.

Boston's Mickey Vernon slipped Minnie Minoso rounds out the top from third to fourth at .339 and five with .325. Vernon fell off 24 points and Minoso, not even among the 10 leaders a week ago, gained 10 points.

Boyer and long share the National League home run lead with 17 each and Boyer is tied with teammate Stan Musial for the most runs batted in, 54.

PLAY BETTER GOLF

—by Tommy Armour

JUST a word of review about the drive before we go on to study the other shots. Be sure to tee the ball high enough, and play it in line with your left heel. Use a closed stance with the right foot back a bit from the line of flight. Let your weight be a bit heavier on the right foot at address, and be sure that your right shoulder is lower than your left. Left arm extended, but not rigid; right elbow hanging comfortably close to the body. Check your grip; feel the club in your fingers—not in your palms. Throw the club head (not your body) at the ball, and—keep your head steady!

third on Bill Reynolds' double and waited while Frank DiPrima received an intentional pass.

Daniels and Montag gave Anthony, a former New Orleans Pel, who was released recently by Louisville, the old 1-2 homer punch in the fifth. And Montag boomed another in the seventh for the final 5-1 margin.

Valentine who held the Travelers hitless for the final four frames, didn't allow more than one hit in any inning, and was never in serious trouble. He walked one, fanned three.

Half of the Cracker safeties were for extra bases. In addition to his homer, Daniels had a double, and Reynolds chipped in with a pair of two baggers.

Bill Voiselle, fresh in from Richmond, flipped the ninth for Little Rock. Combined age of the 37-year-old Voiselle and Anthony totals more than 70 years, so the Crackers weren't picking on any kids.

Dick Grabowski (7-6) is Manager Clyde King's choice to face Charlie Fowler (2-3), one of the loop's better hurlers, in Tuesday's game.

CRACKER DIARY: What a difference a month makes! When the Crackers pulled out of Little Rock last May 21, after dropping three in a row, the Travelers were only a half game out of third place with an 18-19 record. Attendance was booming, and Ray Winder was anticipating his best season at the box office since the 1951 pennant campaign. Since that time, the Travelers have won only eight of 34 games, and fans have been staying away in droves. What happened? Outfielder Jim Ranson quit the club. Injuries chopped down infielders R. C. Otey, Clint Weaver and Clem Koshorck, outfielder Eric Rodin and pitcher Charlie Fowler.

In desperation, 36 - year - old Steve Souchock, who has a bad back, is playing regularly in the outfield, while Winder searches for help. Latest castoffs collected by the Travelers are pitcher Lee Antony, former New Orleans Pel, who has been at Louisville, and Bill Voiselle, the 37-year-old ex-major leaguer who was with Richmond last year.

Cracker trainer Louis Jarvis suffered a painful gash in his left arm when one of the more adolescent Crackers exploded a firecracker on the bus coming over from Memphis Monday morning. The cracker exploded against Jarvis's arm, setting off an explosion from Manager Clyde King. The juvenile culprit was unidentified. . . . Pitcher Earl Mossor, signed as a free agent after getting the gate at Louisville, is expected to join the Crackers here Tuesday. . . . It's amazing that the Crackers were able to get waivers on Dick Sinovic, when other Southern clubs are in dire need of help. For example, Little Rock.

No. 3 Hitter Goes West With Sinovic

LITTLE ROCK, June 25—In a somewhat surprising move, the Atlanta Crackers Monday shipped outfielder Dick Sinovic to Austin of the Texas League.

Dick Sinovic

Used sparingly by Manager Clyde King recently, Sinovic still ranked as the club's No. 3 hitter percentage-wise.

Austin, which also has a working agreement with Milwaukee, has been pleading with the Braves for help, and presumably the Braves prevailed upon the Crackers to help.

Though the Crackers' official family here was mum on the matter, the deal could mean that, in return for sending Sinovic to Austin, the Braves are finally going to send an infielder to Atlanta.

King made it clear that the decision to part with Sinovic was made by him, but he was reluctant to see the 31-year-old vet depart.

A FAMILY CONFERENCE OR FRATERNIZATION?
Dad of Indians, Bobby of White Sox and Richard of Yanks

MRS. FOLEY'S DILEMMA: BOB, RICHARD OR DAD

By MICKEY LOGUE

Bobby and Richard Foley, a pair of East Point Little Leaguers, have spent their summer keeping Dad in the basement and Mom either in the kitchen or in a state of confusion.

The reason for Mrs. Foley's dilemma?

Eleven-year-old Bobby plays for the American League White Sox; Richard, 10, does his diamond duties with the Yankees, and father Chuck—he's getting older every game—manages the Indians.

Whom to root for and getting them fed present the problems for Mrs. Foley.

"I have a hard time knowing when and where to serve meals," she says. "They leave for the park as a group at 5:30 on double-header nights."

Dad's woes are even more worrisome.

Currently Bobby's White Sox and Richard's Yankees are one-two, while Chuck's Indians man the cellar in the four-team loop.

Only last Friday Bobby tripled with the bases loaded to hasten Papa's troops' 12-2 downfall. And second baseman Richard has made three spectacular plays to help shut out the Tribe in two games.

And how did Dad let these two home-grown standouts get away?

"It wouldn't seem right to use our own sons," says Mr. Foley. Therefore he waived an opportunity to bid on both boys in a pre-season auction.

Naturally, there's plenty of good-natured ribbing around the Foley household concerning who has the best team, but the family agrees Little League baseball is fine for children and parents alike.

And the local small-fry diamond scene boasts few better candidates for Little League Family of the Year.

Fulton Picks Firm To Aid Roads Study

The Fulton County Commission Monday voted to hire an engineer to help the county public works department prepare surveys on roads proposed under the state rural roads program.

The commissioners approved hiring J. P. Baskin and Associates at a rate of $600 a mile to locate, stake and furnish plans on approximately 30 miles of roads.

County Manager A. E. Fuller said the public works office at present cannot keep up with its engineering work and recommended the hiring to "expedite the surveys."

The commissioners also took under advisement the offer of W. H. Wilson, local real estate broker, to purchase 6.6 acres of land on Jefferson street, NW, adjacent to the county's Bellwood Public Works Camp, for construction of a $2 million cold storage warehouse.

The proposal was referred to the county attorney, department of public works, the county manager and the County Industrial Authority.

The commissioners were advised that the property is one of two sites being considered for location of a plant of the Wainwright Cold Storage Co. of Pittsburgh. The plant would be similar to one now under construction in Pittsburgh.

Hobby of 'Lottery Solitaire' Brings $50 Fine as $350 Winnings Are Noted

Dan Freeland's hobby resulted in a $50 fine in Municipal Court Monday.

Detectives W. K. Perry and C. J. Strickland said they observed Freeland, 43, of 666 Lester St., NW, writing down numbers in a tablet. They said the form used was similar to that in lottery bets.

Freeland explained he was really playing a form of lottery solitaire. He said he wrote down the numbers and then checked them against figures in the daily bond total to find if any of them won.

"I didn't bet any money and I didn't turn the figures in to anyone," he said.

Judge James Webb noted a written remark on the bottom of one of the sheets: "Won $350 today."

He assessed a fine of $50 or 50 days against Freeland.

Service, Paving, Supply Bids of $200,000 Opened

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Bids on more than $200,000 worth of city services, improvements and supplies, including eight baby bond paving projects costing more than $100,000, were opened Monday by the purchasing committee.

Ald. Milton Farris, vice chairman, presided. Other large items on which bids were submitted in addition to the paving concluded $26,000 worth of equipment for the sanitary department; $22,378 for cleaning, painting and renovating the interior or the police station, and $23,000 worth of gasoline and other fuel for city-operated vehicles.

McIntosh Paving Co. was apparently low bidder on three of the stretches asking $17,964 for Kimberly road, SW, from Campbellton road to West Kimberly road; $12,553 for Sunset drive, SW, from Kimberly to Grant roads, and $12,546 for Welch street, SW, from Delavon to Dunbar streets.

Sam Finley, Inc., was apparently low bidder on three other of the improvements asking $9,363 for Temple street, NW, from Simpson street to Neal place; $5,728 for Highwood drive, SW, from Barge road 648 feet east and north, and $4,812 for Sharondale drive, NE, from Lindbergh 542 feet northeast.

A Clothing Mystery at Pool

The mystery of a basket of clothes found at Maddox Park remains a mystery.

Police said the clothing at first was believed to have belonged to an 11-year-old girl who was struck by a car in the park Sunday. However, the girl was located. She had her clothing.

Park officials, police and firemen searched the park's pool in vain Sunday night. They are holding the clothing until a claimant appears.

PSC Hears Plea On Express Rate Rise for Buses

The Public Service Commission Monday began a hearing on application of the major bus lines for an increase in intrastate express rates.

The increases would range from about 20 per cent to about 70 per cent, depending on size, weight and distance.

Florists and the Georgia Cattle Breeders Assn. filed protests.

The hearing was recessed while the florists and the bus representatives attempted to work out a compromise of proposed penalty rates on flowers, which are bulky but light in weight. The attempt was unsuccessful and the hearing was brought back into session.

The bus lines, which last week were given an increase in passenger fares, claimed that they need the additional express revenue to meet rising operating costs.

WORRY CLINIC

Big Words A Sign of Showoff

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Dr. Mary Karp, 39, is head of the anesthesia department in Wesley Memorial Hospital here in Chicago.

She graduated from the University of Minnesota Medical School and has had special training at the Lahey Clinic in Boston, the Jackson Clinic in Wisconsin.

Also, she has served as president of the Chicago Society of Anesthetists, and teaches in our medical school.

I tell you this to show she is a brilliant professional woman. But when she is at a social event or visiting friends, you never hear her mention a word about medicine.

She frolics with the children and is vitally interested in baseball, football and other sports.

She belittles her own domestic science ability and graciously asks other women for recipes.

So she is exceedingly popular with all types of people. Nobody ever would charge her with being "highhat" or snobbish. She puts everybody at ease and makes the other people feel important.

Contrast her with Dr. Eloise, who is also a brilliant woman doctor.

FREEZE OUTS

Dr. Eloise can't be in any social gathering two minutes until she tries to "freeze out" the laymen from the conversation by "going medical."

She shifts conversation over to her own field. That might not be so bad if she'd employ average vocabulary. But she uses technical medical lingo that is over the heads of laymen.

Medicine is noted, anyway, for its circumlocutions and tendency to employ long words where short ones would serve better.

So Dr. Eloise will spaek about an "upper respiratory infection" when the average citizen would prefer the simple word "flu."

She will speak of the "dilatation" instead of using the shorter term "dilation." And "stretching" would be even more simple.

"Dr. Crane, why does she do this?" you may wonder. "As an educated woman, wouldn't you think she'd try to employ words that the rest of the crowd could understand?"

If she were a deft psychologist like Dr. Mary Karp, she doubtless would. But Dr. Eloise wants everybody to know she is an M.D. She craves ego inflation.

SOCIAL FISHERS

Some people chronically "fish" for the social spotlight. That's the type of person who tries to highhat his neighbors by overdressing.

He (or she) lavishes an undue amount of money on a new car or TV set or on jewels and fur coats, though he may be in hock to a finance company and develop ulcers trying to make his payments.

He tries to affect at least a financial superiority because he is really a victim of an inferiority complex.

Such a person is "fishing" for social acceptance and thinks he can buy popularity by intimating his wealth.

Don't be deceived. People who are true patricians or the real aristocrats of personality, don't put on such airs. It's usually the newly rich or social climbers who try to adopt all the external signs of what they deem to be the wealthy class or pace-setters.

So, like the scared boy who whistles in the dark to reassure himself, these insecure folks try to put on the dog and ritz their neighbors.

Even when they possess an M.D. degree, as Dr. Eloise does, they still may feel socially insecure and thus continue to fish for more acclaim.

Survey your high school classmates or other acquaintances. Which are like Dr. Mary and which like Dr. Eloise?

It's really fun an analyze people so start being an applied psychologist at once by starting such a classification.

Since 1948, the number of farmers in Israel has increased from 111,000 to 346,000.

5 Doctors Assigned to Rural Posts

Five doctors who received scholarships from the State Medical Education Board have been assigned to rural Georgia communities where they will begin practice about July 1, L. R. Siebert, secretary of the board, said Monday.

The young physicians received financial aid for their medical education in exchange for agreement to practice in rural areas. Each doctor agreed to practice for one year in a rural community for each $1,000 received in state scholarship aid, Siebert explained.

The five doctors and their assignments include: Dr. Sterling A. Harris, Buford; Dr. John R. Harrison, Millen; Dr. H. K. Heath, Pavo; Dr. Richard L. Nutt, Jeffersonville, and Dr. Jack W. Whitworth, Greenville.

Placements were made by the State Medical Education Board after the doctors visited communities needing physicians and selected the towns they preferred.

Four other physicians who received state scholarships have completed their internships but two must serve in the Army before beginning practice, Siebert said. He added the other two have not yet been placed.

Siebert said nine scholarship recipients were graduated in June, but they must complete their internships before they will be available for placement.

The board secretary said 64 recipients of state scholarships are in medical school at the present time.

The State Medical Education Board will meet at 10 a.m. Thursday, July 5, to grant about 30 new scholarships. To be eligible for state scholarship aid, Georgia students must be accepted by or already enrolled in an accredited medical college.

RUM-AND-TONIC. Pour 1½-oz. light dry rum, and juice of ½ lemon, over ice in a highball glass. Fill with Schweppes. Photographed at the nineteenth hole of a famous country club.

PERNOD-AND-TONIC. This vogue started in France! Pour a jigger of Pernod over cracked ice in a tall glass. Fill with Schweppes, and enjoy al fresco—as illustrated.

Nasser Wins Yes-No Vote; Dictator Still

CAIRO, Egypt, June 25 (AP)—Gamal Abdel Nasser was officially proclaimed president of Egypt today with powers under a new constitution that match those of his revolutionary rule.

The 38-year-old President Nasser was feted at the Cairo Officers Club after the government announced he had won 99.9 per cent of the total vote in Saturday's election.

Nasser polled personally a slightly higher vote than that cast for the constitution which he announced last January and which was ratified at the same time the voters elected Nasser.

The government corrected an earlier figure and said 5,267 votes were cast against him, instead of 2,857, in more than five and a half million ballots. Voters could only vote "yes" or "no."

Names the Same In New Skin Game

PORT HURON, Mich., June 25 (AP)—Mrs. Frances Kiernan, Port Huron police clerk, thought she was being kidded when a man arrested by border police signed his name as Charles Lester Elmer Lawrence Archer.

So she asked for some identification.

Archer stripped off his shirt and displayed nine tattoes of his name on the right arm, eight on the left arm and a large one on his chest.

He was booked for illegal entry into this country from nearby Sarnia, Ont.

Davis Lays High Pay to Job Boosting

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—A House subcommittee reported today that government "empire building" has resulted in one out of every 350 federal employes receiving an annual salary of $11,610 or more.

The House group, saying there has been a "tremendous" increase in top salary jobs, set out to learn why.

Rep. Davis (D-Ga) said there was a "tendency to raise salaries through upgrading" of jobs and "nobody does anything about it."

Davis is chairman of a Manpower Utilization subcommittee of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

Philip Young, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, called before the group today, promised to help the subcommittee staff in getting information.

Young said Civil Service had no control over how many employes an agency had or over the internal organization of an agency.

"Doesn't it leave a loophole that ought to be plugged?" Davis asked.

Davis said in January 1937 the ratio of employes in the equivalent of Grade 15—which now makes $11,610 a year—to total civilian employment was one to 3,738.

A year ago, Davis said, the ratio had dropped to one to every 447 employes.

Steel Buyers Would Foot Pay Raises

NEW YORK, June 25 (UP)—A top negotiator for the steel industry's big three warned today that the American consumer will have to foot the bill for any wage increase granted the nation's 650,000 steelworkers.

John Morse, negotiator for Bethlehem Steel, voiced the warning as bargaining teams worked to break the deadlock that threatens to erupt into an economy-crippling strike with the expiration of the U.S. Steel Workers union's contract next Saturday at midnight.

FAR APART

There were no indications of a settlement. The industry's big three, U.S. Steel, Republic and Bethlehem, were lined up solidly behind their "final" five-year contract offer. The union was equally adamant in its demands for a short-term contract and more money.

Morse said there would be a substantial increase in steel prices if the union gets more money.

Experts estimate that if the union settled for a 20 cents an hour package increase the price of steel would be jacked up between $10 and $12 per ton.

A steel price increase also would force Americans to pay more for such varied products as toasters, washing machines, homes, jet bombers and even hairpins.

20 CT. DIFFERENCE

The big three, representing the 17 major steel firms in the negotiations, have offered an average 7.3 cents an hour increase for each worker for each year of a five-year, no-strike contract. The union wants about 27.5 cents an hour.

An industry spokesman said today that the big three might be willing to accept a shorter contract if the union reduces its other demands.

With the strike deadline only five days away, the steel industry was prepared to begin shutting down its billion-dollar facilities on Wednesday.

Truman Dines With Winnie, Eden, Attlee

LONDON, June 25 (AP)—Harry S. Truman dined tonight with Prime Minister Eden and Eden's two predecessors—Sir Winston Churchill and Lord Attlee. Truman said it was a "wonderful occasion."

"It's certainly the first time in my life I ever had dinner with three British prime ministers," the ex-President said.

The dinner was at Eden's official residence, 10 Downing St. Guests said "many toasts were made to Mr. Truman—all of them highly complimentary."

Truman will lunch tomorrow with Queen Elizabeth II at Buckingham Palace.

Earlier today he had tea with India's Prime Minister Nehru and Ceylon's Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike. They were at the home of Nehru's sister, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, Indian envoy to London. Truman described the gathering as purely social.

Truman was luncheon host to Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the Labor party, and eight other members of that party.

The former President, recalling his White House years, told newsmen that the American presidency is a "killing job" which should be held by young men "who've been trained" for it.

He declined to discuss President Eisenhower's illness.

Asked if he thought the Kremlin had had any change of heart since Stalin's death, he replied:

"I'm still from Missouri, which means I want to be shown."

Italy Red Asks Guarantees Against 'Errors' of Stalinism

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)

ROME, June 25—Palmiro Togliatti, secretary general of the Communist party, has urged Soviet leaders to furnish "guarantees" against a repetition of Stalin's "errors."

The 63-year-old Communist leader, who played a prominent role in the old Comintern, the pre-war Communist international organization, said he quarrelled with Stalin in 1951 over the now defunct Cominform, a body formed in 1947 to direct the activities of European Communists.

Signor Togliatti advocated "bilateral" relations between Communist parties in different countries and predicted a "new way" of Democracy in the Soviet Union.

He pleaded with Pietro Nenni, left-wing Socialist leader, not to cut his ties with communism.

Togliatti promised rank-and-file Communists they would find ample opportunity to discuss the new party line and voice their criticisms at a general party congress to be held some time late this year.

All this was contained in a three-hour report Togliatti gave to his party's central committee last night. The official text was made available late tonight and will be published tomorrow in L'Unita, Communist party newspaper.

Togliatti's remarks led analysts here to expect that Nikita S. Khrushchev, first secretary of the Soviet Communist party, might issue soon a message to Communist parties outside the Soviet orbit clarifying and explaining his secret report to the 20th Congress of the Soviet Communist party in Moscow in February.

Enraged VA Employe Kills Boss and Self

JACKSON, Miss., June 25 (UP)—A Veterans Administration employe, apparently angered by an adverse report on his work, shot and killed his boss at the VA hospital here today, then committed suicide.

James W. Lann, 42, of Amory, Miss., chief of education and training section of the vocational rehabilitation division of the hospital, was fatally wounded in the bachelor quarters of the VA center shortly before 1 a.m.

DeWitt Laird, 49, of Jackson, was found in his automobile near the hospital grounds a short while later shot through the mouth, a .32 caliber automatic pistol clutched in his hand.

A coroner's jury ruled the deaths murder-suicide. Each man leaves a widow and two daughters.

"It sounds to me simply like a case of a man going off his noggin," said Hospital Manager A. W. Woolford. "These men had worked amicably together for more than 16 years."

Police, however, said Lann had recently written a personnel report on Laird which Laird apparently did not like. Officers said he had been drinking when he went to Lann's room about 12:50 a.m.

Witnesses told police Laird shot Lann through the body outside Lann's room after a brief scuffle, then left the building. Lann died a few minutes later.

When police arrived they found Laird dead in his car.

Dublin Rally Slated July 7 By Talmadge

Herman Talmadge will speak in south Georgia at Dublin next week after opening his campaign for the U.S. Senate in north Georgia at Rome July 4.

Jim Gillis, Talmadge's campaign manager, said the Dublin rally will be held July 7 and that 15,000 to 20,000 persons are expected to attend the meeting and a barbecue.

Talmadge's opponent, M. E. Thompson, said he does not plan to make an intensive campaign immediately.

"I'm anxious to carry on an intensive campaign," he said. "Whether funds will be provided for this I just don't know."

Thompson said his headquarters will be at his home in Valdosa and that he has not yet appointed a campaign manager.

Nick Montos Gets 8 Years for Gun, Drug Carrying

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 25 (AP)—George (Slippery Nick) Montos, only person to ever make the FBI's 10 most wanted list twice, was sentenced to eight years in a Federal Prison today.

Montos, 39, pleaded guilty to two counts of interstate firearms transportation and one count of interstate transportation of drugs.

A nationally known bank bandit and safecracker, Montos was captured during the early morning hours of March 30 by FBI agents in a suburban motel.

Captured with him was Robert Lloyd Jones, 30, convicted of murder. He pleaded guilty to similar charges and received six years.

Montos, an escape artist, and Jones fled Mississippi state prison at Parchman Jan. 10.

Among the spectators at the brief hearing today was attractive Lila May Nail of Chicago, who identified herself as Montos' girlfriend. As officers led him away, she told a newsman:

"He was robbed."

In Atlanta, federal officials Monday said that Montos, who has been held in the penitentiary there, will be tried at Alma, Ga., in "mid-July" on a state robbery charge.

Police Briefed On Politicking

With a political year in the offing, Atlanta Police Chief Herbert Jenkins Monday issued a memorandum calling the attention of officers to regulations governing political campaigns.

The City Code makes it unlawful for a candidate formally to address members of the department in the police barracks, Jenkins said. He said other regulations prohibit the posting of advertising signs, including pictures, on utility poles or trees along city streets.

Plain Faith Lifts Man's 'Bootstraps'

QUESTION: I've never had a problem that I couldn't lick before, but I'm grappling with one now that has thrown me. I've tried to overcome it by my own strength, but all in vain. Can you offer any suggestions which might help me?

—W. R.

ANSWER: Seneca once wrote: "All my life I have been seeking to come out of the pit of my besetting sins, and I can't do it: and I never will, unless a hand is let down to draw me up."

The good news for men like Seneca and you is that a Hand HAS been let down to draw you up, and that Hand is the pierced hand of Christ. He said, "I came to seek and to save that which is lost."

It might seem to many like an over-simplification that a plain faith in Christ can lift a man up out of his defeat and despair. But hundreds and thousands of men and women are tesifying that He has done just that for them.

Complicated diseases are often cured by simple remedies, applied in the right way and the right time. Sin is a spiritual allergy and causes all kinds of personality complications. The Bible says: "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." (I John 1:9)

EXPLANATION: This is a test of your "peripheral vision." With a normal field of vision you should be able to see your thumbs moving while you look straight ahead. If your field of vision is narrower than this, check with your eye doctor. And adjust your driving habits by looking left and right often. Be sure you know what the drivers around you are doing at all times.

Remember: what you can't see can hurt you!

The open road starts at your own doorstep. And all of it is yours to enjoy: the white beaches, the blue lakes, the cool green hills. The roadside stands heaped high with red tomatoes. Cool, clean sheets. An owl hoot. Crickets chirping. Through all this winds the greatest network of roads ever built. Shell wants you to enjoy your trip. Obey traffic rules. A Rhyme a Day

"And, recently, the economists who have advocated spending freely and using credit to the limit, are becoming worried that not enough savings are accumulating to finance the ever-expanding industry."—Financial column quote.

This generation never heard . . . of "thrift," that once familiar word . . . well known when folks save all such things . . . as pennies, buttons, pins and strings . . . their motto is to spend it fast . . . and so the old folks stand aghast . . . that what is earned is spent in haste . . . and it is sensible to waste.

The trouble with the most of us . . . old folks is, we cannot discuss . . . the changes that are being made . . . one reason is, we are afraid . . . we're headed for another crash . . . with everybody short of cash . . . and back on peas and johnny-cakes . . . instead of seven-dollar steaks.

The young folks may be "right as rain" . . . such times may never come again . . . and insofar as I can tell . . . they all are doing pretty well . . . they have fine homes and modern cars . . . the men smoke 40-cent cigars . . . and what their wives buy at those sales . . . would likely break the Prince of Wales . . . but let 'em go, and if they're wrong . . . they'll find it out before too long.

(And, furthermore, if you're THAT old, what do you care what happens?)

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	1 spade	2 clubs	Pass
2 no tmp.	Pass	3 no tmp.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of spades.

Blocking out an adverse suit is usually done by holding up the controlling card of that suit. But there is a rarer way of accomplishing this end that is much more picturesque.

South chose to open with one heart. Tho he had the high card requirements for a standard opening no trump bid, he refrained from making such call because of the worthless doubleton in clubs. West had a natural overcall of one spade and North's free bid of two clubs is border line. The wealth of intermediate cards makes such action justifiable. When South rebid two no trump, North properly carried on to three. Observe that the same contract will be reached even if North does not enter the auction on the first round, for South will reopen the bidding with a take-out double and North may then respond with three clubs permitting South to make a try at three no trump.

West opened the king of spades and South held up. The second lead of the queen of spades was also ducked and West proceeded to clear the suit. Declarer then led a low club intending to finesse the ten of clubs into the innocuous East hand. Had West relaxed long enough to play low, declarer would have been home. For after East took his jack of clubs declared would have had nine running tricks, with the king of clubs "onside."

But West shrewdly played the king of clubs second hand and declarer was stymied. Permitted to hold the trick West would run the setting tricks in spades, so declarer had no choice but to win the trick and trust to the diamond finesse, which in view of the bidding seemed a forlorn hope. However, it was the only chance, so declarer took it and got a quick decision against him.

Mailing of Joint Tax Bills For Fulton, Atlanta Starting

Tax bills—which will reflect new property values and assessments put in effect through Fulton County's real property reappraisal—will be mailed out over a four-day period beginning Tuesday.

Standish Thompson, the county's chief deputy tax commissioner, said approximately 40,000 joint tax bills for the City of Atlanta and Fulton County will be mailed out Tuesday.

The tax office will continue mailing out bills at a rate of about 40,000 daily for the four-day period.

The tax-paying period for both city and county begins July 1.

This year's joint tax bill has some improvements over the 1955 bills, Thompson explained. These include new uniform property numbers which will aid taxpayers and title attorneys in checking records and avoids duplicate numbers, and separate listing of t he city sanitary tax.

Last year there was no separate listing or breakdown of the sanitary tax and during the payment period the tax office had to reserve a telephone to answer complaints about this, Thompson said.

Although tax returned filed by a property owner lists all properties owned by him, he will receive individual bills for each parcel.

This is the first year that the bills have reflected the new property valuations established during the property reappraisal. They went into effect for tax purposes on Jan. 1. Both the city and county governments cut taxes one mill in anticipation of higher revenues from the new values and assessments.

Gonzalez, "a pseudonym for a leading, serious conductor of symphony orchestras in Central and South America," brings a freshness of approach to such standards as "Marcheta," "La Paloma," "Perfida" and "Estrelitta." Exceedingly good sound.

Board Mum On Disputed AIA Book

The state Architects' Examining Board Monday ducked the controversial issue of a directory published by the American Institute of Architects.

The board exonerated George T. Heery, in whose name the diretory was issued, of charges of "fraud and unethical practice."

But it refused to make further comment as to whether it considered issuance of the AIA directory to be unethical.

Wilfred J. Gregson, former member of the state board, testified Monday that a roster published by the secretary of state showed 658 architects registered to practice in Georgia.

LISTS 252

The directory put out by the AIA, however, lists only 252 of that number—all AIA members, he said.

Gregson said the label of the AIA booklet—"Directory of Georgia Architectural Firms"—was misleading in that many people believed it to be a complete list.

Gregson's attorney, Mrs. Helen Douglas Mankin, told the board she did not actually want Heery's license revoked. She said a request for revocation was the only way the matter could legally be brought before the board.

Mrs. Mankin said she hoped the board, in refusing to revoke Heery's license, would at the same time take a stand as to whether the members believed the AIA directory ethical.

She charged that the board represented a "stacked deck" because all the members are also AIA members.

ANNOUNCED REFUSAL

When the board announced its refusal to revoke Heery's license without any additional comment, Gregson said "I guarantee you it will go further."

Gregson said he did not know yet whether "further" would be a court case or an appeal to the local chapter of the AIA.

Earlier, Gregson had testified he sent letters to about 150 non-AIA Georgia architects. Of some 50 who replied, he said, 45 said they thought the AIA directory unfair. One man said he had lost a job because he was not on the list.

Heery was represented at the hearing by Baxter Jones, who insisted his client should be completely exonerated.

Winship Will Helps Church And College

An Atlanta businessman who left an estate estimated at almost one million dollars has made sizeable bequests to an Atlanta church and Agnes Scott College at Decatur.

The bequests were made in the will of George Winship, which was probated Monday in common form in the office of Fulton County Ordinary Eugene Gunby. Mr. Winship, who was president of the Fulton Supply Co., died June 20.

The will left $10,000 to the Central Presbyterian Church and $10,000 to Agnes Scott. In addition it gives $1,000 in cash to each of Mr. Winship's six grandchildren.

Half of the estate was left in trust to his brother, Charles T. Winship and the Fulton National Bank. The trust is to be invested and the full income paid to his wife. The remainder of the estate is to be divided into two parts, one for his daughter, Mrs. Harry P. Leadingham of Milwaukee, and the other to his son, George Winship Jr., of Atlanta.

The brother and the bank were also appointed executors and trustees of the estate in the will.

The will leaves all of Mr. Winship's personal effects to his wife and provides that she shall have use of his home at 187 Peachtree Way, NE. The trustees were authorized, however, to sell the property at her request and to purchase another home for her.

Outdoor Theater Party Nights Set

Monday nights will be "party nights" at the Theater Under the Stars this summer.

Opening night audiences at each of the six Broadway musical shows will get to meet the stars, chat with members of the chorus and orchestra and help themselves to punch and cookies to be provided by the outdoor theater.

These informal backstage parties, arranged by Eric Mattson, managing director of the theater, will start with the opening production of "The King and I" July 9. They will be conducted each Monday night throughout the season.

Anamary Dickey and Erik Rhodes will sing the leading roles in "The King and I." Other shows scheduled at the Chastain Amphitheater are: "Naughty Marietta," "Brigadoon," "High Button Shoes," "Kismet" and "South Pacific."

Reserve Center Selects a Pilot-Poet As Candidate for 'Miss Air Power'

By BETTY CARROLLTON

"A pilot is not really courageous until he's been challenged."

That has long been the belief of a pretty Atlantan who has faced — and passed with flying colors—her own test of courage.

Miss Jeane Weydert, stewardess for Southern Airlines and Atlanta Reserve Air Center's entry for the "Miss Air Power of 1956" title, is often up in the clouds. A pilot in her own right, a series of mishaps has not lessened Jean's fondness for flying.

On her first cross-country solo flight (after about eight hours of dual flying) motor trouble caused Jean's plane to plunge to the ground.

"I prayed real hard, and worked the controls," she recalled. "There was no time for anything else. I don't think I was really afraid until it was all over."

Jean's plane crashed in a cotton patch and she suffered minor back injuries.

Doctors declared she "couldn't possibly" fly again for at least six months. Her mother, Mrs. Ann H. Weydert, and friends insisted that Jean shouldn't ever fly again. But two months after the crash, the plucky pilot was once more soloing in the air.

Jean won her private license in 1948, and has been up in the air a great deal since.

"A MAGNET"

She's had a couple of forced landings due to mechanical difficulties, and once lost the door off her ship. Otherwise, its been smooth flying.

"I guess the space between heaven and earth has always been a magnet, drawing me toward it," Jean said. "Then, too, anything my brothers did, I wanted to do."

It was her brother Charles who introduced Jean to the thrill of flying. Following his graduation exercises at the Naval Air Station in Pensacola, Charles took Jean for a flight. Almost before her feet had touched the ground again, she had decided to take flying lessons. Since she obtained her license, Jean has taken her mother and both brothers on numerous flights.

"After Mother was reconciled to the idea of her daughter being a pilot, she became almost as enthusiastic about it as I am," Jean said. "She wasn't a bit nervous when I took her up for her first flight. But my youngest brother, Don, threatened me with all sorts of things if I 'tried any tricks' with him in the plane."

BUSINESS CAREER

Although she "always knew" she would like flying, Jean had not planned a career in the clouds.

To please her father, who died several years ago, Jean prepared for a profession in the business world.

"But flying was in my blood," Jean explained. She knew she would never be happy on the ground.

In 1950, she became a stewardess with Southern Airlines. Her job keeps her in the air some 20 hours a week, and she manages to log additional flying hours in a private plane "just for the joy of flying."

HUNTING, FISHING

Jean enjoys hunting and fishing, often accompanying her brothers on such outings when theyre home on leave. (Charles, now a captain, is on active duty at Dow Air Force Base in Bangor, Maine; Donald, a sergeant in the Marine Corps, is stationed at Kanoe Bay, Hawaii.)

The aviatrix also enjoys writing. She's written several short stories and five of her poems, inspired by experiences in the air, have been published.

Jean said her most hectic airline flight was during a violent hailstorm.

"Hail shattered the glass in all the windows of the plane," she recalled. "We had a bad few minutes."

On that flight, Jean told passengers (and she reminds all who are nervous about their first flight) that "The Lord is with us just as much here as He is when we're on the ground."

Atlanta Hair Stylist Wins State Contest

The style body of the Georgia Hairdressers Assn. held a contest in Savannah recently to select the state's representative to attend the convention of the National Hairdressers Assn. in Dallas, Tex., July 16-18.

Harry P. Paul of Atlanta was selected to represent Georgia at the national contest which will have entries from each state, the District of Columbia, Hawaii, Alaska and Canada.

Contestants in the state contest were judged on the originality, adaptability and execution of the style they created at the meeting.

The winner created a swirl-away style for short hair that uses waves in a swirling side motion to give the hair a softer and more lady-like appearance, although he said he does not advocate the shingled hair style for women.

BECOMING LENGTH

The becoming length in women's hair styles today, this stylist feels, is with just a little space between the tip end of the hair and the top of the collar. This length usually looks soft and feminine, and is easier for a woman to keep well-groomed herself. He also thinks that softness around the brow, as opposed to the slicked-back style, is more feminine and provocative.

As for hair coloring, Mr. Paul said he thinks a woman should look upon hair coloring as she does other make-up. She thinks nothing of changing the color of her complexion with powder and foundations, then why not give her appearance a lift by giving life to her hair coloring.

HAIR COLORING

He stressed that great advances have been made in both the techniques and shades in hair coloring. The natural color of hair can be accentuated today without removing natural grey streaks or strands.

Mr. Paul doesn't feel that the natural color of a woman's hair is necessarily the most becoming color for her. "If nature were perfect," he said, "beauty salons wouldn't be necessary at all."

The most important single factor in hairdressing, according to Mr. Paul, is the cutting. Hair should be cut the way it grows. If this is done, permanent waves will take easier, and coiffures will stay in place much better from setting to setting.

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

I am very much in love with a girl who lives 240 miles from here. I am 16 and she is 14. We feel that this is really love and not just a passing thing. I have known her for a couple of years so we know each other quite well.

We both are very popular and have been dating other kids since it is impossible for us to go steady. I would like to have your opinion about this type of romance. I believe there are quite a number of teen-agers who have a similar problem. Please answer as soon as space is available, because I think this could make a big difference in my social standing.

Regardless of how sincerely you believe "this is really love," I believe it is a "passing thing." Please understand, I am not depreciating your affection for this girl. But you see, even though you believe you are truly in love now, in a comparatively short time your ideas of what you want in a lifetime partner may change. For instance, at 16, some boys are interested only in girls who are cute looking or very good dancers. But as they grow older they realize it takes more than just being cute or the ability to do the latest dance steps to be a satisfactory wife and mother.

Changing ideas and viewpoints are a normal, necessary and important part of growing up. At 7 years of age one may want to be a policeman, at 12 a flyer, at 16 a doctor or lawyer, at 20 a business executive. And so it is with boy-girl relationships—time and experience change ideals.

So, my advice is this: continue to regard this girl as someone extra special if you want to and see her whenever it is convenient. But in the meantime, date other girls who live in your town and attend nearby schools. You need the dating experience to help you eventually decide what you really do want in a future wife. Except in rare instances this knowledge is not acquired by a 16-year-old youngster who has tied himself down to one girl.

Tobe Says

Cotton Knit Suits Are Fashion Fad

The great fad for cotton knits of all sorts includes bathing suits for little sisters, too. These of course are in heavier, textured surface cotton knit fabrics that hold their shape very well when wet. They are usually knit in stripes, preference of youngsters everywhere.

The suits themselves are one piece with bare fancy halter or strap tops that look like those on adult evening gowns.

Celestine Sibley

Unwashed, Uncombed

Miss Betty Carrollton, that eminent women's department news gatherer, overheard this conversation and reported it to me as a public service.

My 12-year-old daughter and her friend, Mary Em, were in deep and solemn conclave.

"I know," sighed Mary Em. "I sympathize with you. Sometimes my mother acts that way, too."

"We just don't know what we're going to do with her!" said my little one, deeply distressed. "We worry about her, but after all . . . a mother!"

The weight of the problem caused Mary Em to bob her pretty head in distress. "I don't know what you can do with her. It's pitiful."

My child grieved silently for a moment and then she rallied bravely. "I don't believe she really meant what she said," she ventured after a while. "She wouldn't really rather be dead than to have to go to see Elvis Presley."

Our Miss Carrollton was greatly relieved that the problem at my house was Mama's marked lack of enthusiasm for Elvis Presley instead of paranola or dope addiction. But she needn't have been. Me, I'm worried.

I did go to see Elvis Presley when he was in town writhing and jerking and choking on the Paramount stage last week, and I've been in an acute state of depression ever since. My lack of appreciation for his act wouldn't distress me particularly.

But what really distresses me about this Elvis Presley to-do is that for the first time in my life I feel completely out of rapport with young people. I even caught myself wringing my hands up there in the dark of the Paramount, moaning weakly, "What is the younger generation coming to?"

Mr. Presley's act is to me a frightening commentary on the taste and intelligence of a great segment of the teen-age population. The songs he sang weren't repugnant to me. We've been hearing "Blue Suede Shoes," "Heartbreak Hotel" and "I Want You," etc., around our house for some months now and they seemed funny and lively to me in an idiotic fashion.

But Mr. Presley doesn't SING. At least, not so as you'd notice it. He surrounds himself with a little orchestra and a quartet of pleasant young men called the Jordanaires, and then he lumbers out on the stage looking unwashed, uncombed and uncontrolled, makes a few jerky, incoherent noises into the microphone and begins what he strangely calls a "dance." He has a guitar hanging around his neck. (He didn't play it the afternoon I was there.) His hands hang loosely at his sides and presently they begin to tremble and jerk like King Kong in the throes of some awful simian spasm. This moves down to his legs and worsens.

But do you think it produces sympathy and compassion in our young people? No-o, oh, no. Sweet, young girls, pretty little things whose papas buy them nice clothes and send them to good schools and whose mamas ostensibly teach them manners, leap into the air twitching feverishly and keening like fox hounds. They love the spectacle of the poor boy in a fit.

It is, they assured me, sexy.

Young Mr. Presley, the 21-year-old truck driver who learned his singing from Hovie Lister and the Statesmen quartet, professes not to know the secret of his dancing's hold on our young people. It is, he confided backstage (calling me "Ma'am" and looking young and innocuous enough), practically an act of worship since he has seen "plenty of good Christian people" doing it when they get to singing.

Maybe so. I don't know. But I feel awful. Do you suppose today's children aren't as smart as we've been thinking?

Scribbled Notes Tell Of 'Tonsil Tyranny'

Have you ever had an excruciating earache? Or a very sore throat? Or even a very sore toe? They make you irritable, don't they?

If you are bedfast you are completely dependent on the good offices of others. You need someone around to wait on you hand and foot, you want someone around, yet you don't want anyone around. Essentially you want quiet and peace.

HUNTS, CAN'T EAT

If you have experienced this you can understand the plight of a child a day or two after his tonsils have been removed. He hurts, he can't eat, and he shouldn't move, and he can't talk—and it's a good thing his powers of recuperation are so sturdy, for a week of this and the nicest child in the world becomes an exacting tyrant.

A sweet little girl we know had a spell of this tonsil tyranny not long ago and solved her inability to talk by reaching for a pencil and pad of paper the minute the first bite of invalid food was pressed upon her.

"Am I on a dite?" she wrote.

When told she was, she wrote, "Take away."

HELPFUL SISTER

That settled the milk toast. Her 9-year-old sister, grieved at having her cherished playmate ill, insisted on taking over the sickroom duties. If you want a neat, one-sided catalog of the growth of tyranny, here it is, in scribblings rescued from the day's wastebasket.

"Yes. Stop reading."
"Look. Get me a book!!!"
"Feed me!!"
"Read to me!!"
"Get think-and-do and 44, 20, 31 (presumably her number book)."
"Get this off."
"Iv bin hot all day."
"Get Daisie." (A doll.)
"School dress for her."
"Stop talking!"
"No!!!!" apparently irritated beyond measure.
"Get me some milk, pleas."
"No!" Here her sister must have thought the course of wisdom demanded that she leave. "Come back!"

So sister settled down to quiet activity of her own. She began arranging some apple blossoms and will flowers into a gift for her mother.

The invalid watched silently for a while, then snatched her pencil and wrote in large letters:

FLOWER OFFERING

"I will not speak to you or rite letters for you if you do not let the—" here she drew a picture of some flowers—"be from me to."

The 9-year-old could have accepted the threat bladly, but instead she must have nodded acquiescence, tears rolling down her cheeks.

One can only assume the acquiescence and the tears, for the final note on the pad was a contrite "I love you."

"Happier now than as a bride!"

Many women are like Mrs. A. McGrathe who, years after their bridal days, later learn about the proper method of douching with a fountain syringe, using an effective yet safe solution, like ZONITE. ZONITE is an effective antiseptic-germicide that washes away germs and odor-causing waste and is harmless to tissues! Benefit from Mrs. McGrathe's experience, and become one of today's modern wives who welcome the "peace of mind" and daintiness ZONITE gives them after monthly periods and other times. If any abnormal condition exists, see your doctor. Use ZONITE as directed as often as needed. Costs pennies per douche.

Showcase Loses Lustre With Unhappy 'Birthday'

By JACK GOULD

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK, June 25—The Producers' Showcase had an off night on television this evening. Its revival of "Happy Birthday," with Betty Field in the part created on Broadway by Helen Hayes, was very tepid theater.

The Anita Loos comedy never was much of an example of the art of playwriting. The story of the drab librarian who has one exciting night in her life when she gets drunk in a Newark tavern is burdened down with some impossible line, characterizations and sub-plots.

Its survival depends wholly on the playing of the central role of Addie, the librarian, and Miss Field was perhaps miscast in the part. In appearance and dress she seemed the smartest woman in the tavern, anything but the mousy old maid.

Miss Field also was not too persuasive in suggesting either the comedy of the poignancy of the plain woman who under the influence of alcohol finally has her hour as a fairy princess. The emotional exhilaration and human warmth of the woman's experience simply was not realized.

Barry Nelson played the part of the bank clerk, hardly a role to tax his talents. Enid Markay and Luella Gear had some of the best moments as the two old warhorses of tavern society. William Harrigan, Tina Louise and Wynne Gibson had the other major parts. Alex Segal's direction was on the complicated side Both the visual tricks of TV and the excessive background music could have been curbed to advantage.

Golden-Agers To Fete July 4th With Picnic

Is your age 49 and one more? If so, the Golden Age Clubhouse at 1261 W. Peachtree, NE, welcomes you five days a week from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Celebrating its first Fourth of July picnic in its "own back yard" a day early—July 3 at 12 noon—the senior members plan to entertain their families with an old-fashioned watermelon cutting and many games directed by the City Parks Department.

FIRST COAST AIRING

Godfrey To Originate Shows in California

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 25—Arthur Godfrey and his troupe will air their CBS television shows from San Francisco July 2 through July 5, the first time the programs have originated from the West Coast.

The daily afternoon shows, Arthur Godfrey Time, will be beamed from such diversified locations as the Mark Hopkins Hotel; the four-masted schooner Balclutha, a relic of the gold-mining days; from Sutros, on the beach of San Francisco, and from the San Francisco-Oakland ferry.

Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts, on the evening of July 2, will be presented from the San Francisco Opera House. The July 4 evening program, Arthur Godfrey and His Friends, will originate from Castle Air Force Base at Merced, near San Francisco.

A new quiz show with Jan Murray as host will make its debut on the American Broadcasting Co. television network on Sept. 7. The program, Treasure Hunt, will offer prizes ranging from $25,000 in cash and trips around the world to a head of cabbage. The show will be sponsored by the Mogen David Wine Corp. of Chicago.

Membership of the television-radio branch of the Writers Guild of America, West, has voted approval of their negotiating committee's recent agreement with the television networks. The new pact, covering film television writing, extends to January 1960.

Kragan Corp., the National Broadcasting Co.'s film production subsidiary, has announced plans to complete pilot films for six new film series before the end of the year at California studio production center. Alan W. Livingston, president of Kagran, in making the announcement, stated the first pilots to go into production are an adventure-mystery series and an undescribed series to appeal to both children and adults.

Terry Moore and Robert Sterling have been cast in "The Moneymaker," a television remake of the 20th Century-Fox picture, "Mr. 880." The television film will go before the cameras this week for presentation next fall on the "20th Century-Fox Hour." . . . John Barrymore Jr. will star in "The Ghost of Greenwich Village," an hour-long fantasy drama on the NBC Matinee Theater on June 28. . . . Matt Lorenz has been signed to portray the hoodlum who blinded Victor Riesel, the labor columnist, in NBC-TV's Big Story on June 29. Larry Haines will play the role of Riesel.

Doniger Addresses Georgia Clothiers

By JIM MONTGOMERY

The president of one of the nation's leading sportswear manufacturing firms Monday urged Georgia apparel retailers to plan and work together to achieve mutual progress.

Harry Doniger

Harry Doniger of McGregor-Doniger, Inc., New York, speaking at the organizational meeting of the Georgia Assn. of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers in Atlanta, said the new statewide group will help in many ways all who contribute to its growth.

He was introduced by Oby T. Brewer of Atlanta, president of the Georgia association and of Muse's, and immediate past president of the National Assn. of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers.

Describing the men's apparel industry as "dynamic, vital and fundamental," Doniger pointed out that its potential in Georgia is as great "as any state in the nation—even greater."

He said, "Nothing will stop your new organization" if you seek to plan ahead, to improve and to build up a feeling of mutual understanding and respect."

GARCF officers, in addition to Brewer, are Ben Jones of Ben Jones, Inc., Macon; Olin Luke of Luke Brothers, Valdosta; Leon Simon Jr. of Leon Simon Jr., Augusta, and DuPont Kirven of J. A. Kirven Co., Columbus, all vice presidents.

Directors include Atlantans Brandon Morris, Robert Chambers, Morris Hirsch, Arthur Rosenson, Joe Asher and John Jarrell. Other board members are Uly S. Gunn, Athens; Phil Brewster, Cedartown; Carl McCurry, Toccoa; Leon Rosenberg, Albany; Lyle Weems, Dalton; Frank Renick, Augusta; Johnnie Rourke, Savannah, and Carl Greentree, Columbus.

Rice Stix Here

Rice Stix, Inc., St. Louis, has purchased the capital stock of Dougherty Little Redwine Co., an Atlanta wholesale dry goods firm established in 1902.

Perryman Little, executive vice president of the local organization, said it will continue as a Georgia corporation and as the Southeastern division of Rice Stix.

In addition to retaining the present staff, he said, the company will hire additional personnel to handle an expansion program, which will be started immediately.

Change of Name

A new statewide mortgage loan agency headquartered in Decatur has voluntarily changed its name from Southeastern Mortgage Investments, Inc., to Mortgage Investments, Inc., of Georgia.

Southeastern Mortgage Corp. of Albany had brought suit against the Decatur firm over the name, which the latter agreed to change without a court hearing.

After the Decatur firm willingly consented to the change, Judge Frank Guess of DeKalb Superior Court signed an order enjoining it from using the name, Southeastern Mortgage Investments, Inc.

Cotton Off 5 And Up 45

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 5 cents a bale lower to 45 cents higher today.

Only nearby July showed a decline. There were no July transferable notices issued at New York today on first notice day for that delivery. This accounted for nearby firmness in July, but that month later sagged on light liquidation.

New crop months advanced on spot house and local buying. Favorable crop news, dullness in the cotton textile market and the approach of another CCC cotton export sale discouraged aggressive buying of futures.

Traders thought that the bidding and volume of sales at the CCC auction Tuesday will be much smaller than at the last sale on June 12 when the CCC disposed of more than 1,500,000 bales of export cotton.

A leading spot firm in its crop letter today indicated that demand for spot cotton improved last week after results of the CCC cotton export sales had been announced. Uncertainty as to government price policy has caused many mills to curtail buying of the staple.

Atlanta Gets New Sausage Plant in July

Oscar Mayer & Co. of Madison, Wisc., will open a new sausage plant in Atlanta early next month, Oscar G. Mayer Jr., president of the firm, revealed Monday.

Noel L. Glover

To be located in a remodeled 10,000-square-foot warehouse at 880 Warner St., SW, it will be the 73-year-old meat processing firm's first Southern facility.

The announcement said special packaging and other machinery which the company has pioneered in the meat industry is now being installed in the new plant.

Employment, payroll and production figures were not disclosed.

"Our decision to extend our operations to Atlanta," Mayer said, "was prompted by the growing broad-scale acceptance of our products there in past years, which has now assumed such proportions that a local plant and distribution center is needed to service properly our dealer and consumer requirements.

"In addition, we have great faith in the future growth and development of the industrial South, of which we feel Atlanta is an excellent example of the progressive forward movement so vital to business today."

The Atlanta plant and sales manager will be Noel L. Glover, a native of Union City, Tenn., who has been with the company 17 years and is now assistant general sales manager at the Madison headquarters.

Sales of Oscar Mayer & Co., which employs 8,500 persons in its nationwide operations, amounted to 224 million dollars last year. Its other plants are located in Chicago, Madison, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and Davenport, Ia.

Grains Score Small Gains

CHICAGO, June 25 (AP)—In a quiet market grains moved up for modest gains on the Board of Trade today. The upward movement got under way about midway the morning, prior to which prices had hovered around the previous close. While buying never became aggressive, selling pressure was light all day.

Wheat closed 8/8-7/8 higher, corn 1/4-1 1/8 higher, oats unchanged to 1/4 higher, rye 1 1/8-1 5/8 higher, soybeans 1 1/4-2 1/2 higher and lard 5 to 12 cents a hundred pounds lower.

There was not much news to influence the market. Some sections of the winter wheat belt received moisture over the weekend, delaying the harvest and reducing hedging pressure in wheat futures.

First Federal S-L Paying $570,000 Dividend at 3.5

The 64th semi-annual dividend of the First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Atlanta, amounting to over $570,000 at the rate of 3.5 per cent a year, will be payable June 30, George W. West Jr., president, announced Monday.

Since the association is not open on Saturday, he added, funds will be available to savers on Friday, June 29.

West noted that more people are opening or adding to their savings accounts each month than are withdrawing from them. In the first five months of 1956, he said, the growth of savings at First Federal exceeded the entire year of 1955.

Hives Sleuth Sees Origin Of Mystery

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

Hives (urticaria) is our most common allergic disease; from 15 to 25 per cent of the population has encountered one or more bouts. Strawberries and seafood usually are blamed for these lesions but there are many causes; all too often the offending agent never is uncovered.

There is no mystery about the origin when hives develop three days after taking penicillin. Drugs are likely allergens and nowadays are the first to be suspected. But they may be missed when hidden in foods. For example, Johnny has a stubborn case of hives. His sensitivity to penicillin is known but he has not received the antibiotic in eight months.

The answer is found when the fact comes to light that the milk he drinks came from a herd of cattle in which large doses of penicillin were used to treat udder infections (cystic mastitis). It is conceivable also that antibiotics added to chicken feed produce hives in persons extremely sensitive to these drugs.

The individual who is bothered by corn must make a detailed list of all products containing this substance and avoid these items if he wants to remain free of urticaria. Giving up corn on the cob and canned corn is only the bginning. Corn is found in many prepared foods including oils and starches as well as in whisky.

A stubborn case of hives was solved finally when a certain gravy was eliminated from the menus. The victim was sensitive to grapes and an eruption appeared after eating a bunch of grapes or drinking grape juice or wine. He didn't realize that his favorite meat sauce contained grape wine.

Lesions that come and go for weeks or months may be due, not only to allergens hidden in food and drugs but to emotional disturbances. The swellings vary in size from a pinpoint to an area the size of the palm of the hand. Most of the wheals look alike although hives due to drugs have a violaceous hue.

The list of potential candidates in medications is too long to enumerate but the offender may be contained in capsules, tablets, sprays, contraceptives, eardrops and some preservatives.

Among the other hive producers are infection in the throat, urinary tract, or elsewhere in the body, infestation of the digestive tract with parasites, and physical agents such as heat, cold and light.

Glasses That Can't Be Seen

Free booklet explains how you may see without glasses!

Atlanta (Special) — A European scientist has invented a new type of corneal contact lens, which may enable millions of Americans who are now slaves to glasses to actually throw them away. The secret of the difference and superiority of the lens lies in a special ground and polished recessed and dome central portion, which prevents the lens from touching the most sensitive part of the eye—its center. Visual discomfort and poor sight can now be improved. The lens is absolutely invisible. No fluids or impressions are required. Persons who wear thick glasses with strong corrections; post-cataract cases and cases of Keratoconus, mixed astigmatism, strong far-sightedness and nearsightedness can now be corrected. Come in, write or phone for your copy of the interesting Booklet. "The Truth About Contact Lenses" to Research Director, Atlanta Invisible Contact Lens Service, Volunteer Bldg., 66 Luckie St., Suite 323, Atlanta, Ga. Phone JAckson 5-3125 or send a post card.
